Valuable Courage
Mr. Mellon's Fine Purchase
Canada's Big Shock
For Not Raising Hogs

—By Arthur Brisbane—

W. R. HEARST writes, in all his newspapers, that newspapermen should "applaud heartily every Roosevelt act that they think beneficial."

In connection with that sound suggestion, ask yourself how you would feel, and what would be the result in this country, if there were not in Washington a man with the courage and initiative to DO SOMETHING about the big drouth.

Suppose you had a President afraid to move, afraid to relieve the desperate, impoverished farmers by pouring out government money—what might be the result?

Suppose you had a President talking about the divine law of "supply and demand," instead of warning dealers that gougers in food prices will go to jail, as President Roosevelt warns them.

While you are glad to have a President with courage to act in drouth or other emergency, you worry a little about distributions of public monies as loans on all kinds of houses that need mending and farms with owners that would like to borrow.

With 10,000 politicians scattering the public money, estimating the value of properties and handing out loans, how much of that money will come back?

It is good news that Andrew W. Mellon, formerly Secretary of the Treasury, who seems to possess a "comfortable competence," depression or no depression, has bought Raphael's magnificent painting, "Alba Madonna," from the Russian government for one million five hundred thousand dollars.

Geese will say:

"How terrible to spend so much money for one picture in these times."

Wise men will say to the geese:

"You wouldn't get the money anyhow, if he didn't buy the picture. He is to be praised for bringing that magnificent work of art to his own country, where thousands of young artists will see and be inspired by it."

Mr. Mellon is generous, lending his finest paintings for public exhibition, and eventually the picture will become public property.

Mr. Mellon would render even a greater public service if he could persuade Russia to sell him the 6000-book library collected by Voltaire, taken from Fernet to Russia by the Empress Catherine the Second when she bought everything in Voltaire's house, even the wood-en paneling of the rooms. That library selected by Voltaire, hundreds of the volumes marked with comment in his fine handwriting on the leaf margins, would be more valuable than any picture or statue with few exceptions.

What would you give for Voltaire's copy of Montesquieu's "Spirit of Laws," with the old man's sarcastic comments written on leaf after leaf?

One million five hundred thousand dollars seems a terrific price for one picture. But you could not buy, from the Pope, Michelangelo's frescoes in the Sistine Chapel for fifty times $1,500,000, and the French government would not sell you two of its statues, the Venus De Milo and the "Winged Victory," for five hundred million dollars.

Some things, fortunately, have no "price."

Canada has its first big kidnaping case, an important brewer, John S. Labatt, held by racketeers for $150,000 ransom. This Canadian beginning of what has grown to be one of the important branches of our great racketeering industry in the United States startles Canada.

Canadians say, "Undoubtedly the work was done by United States racketeers." They probably are right about that.

Bond men pass from hand to hand a copy of an alleged let-

CONVENTION OPENS IN BROCKTON

Brockton, Aug. 16—Urged to uncompromising opposition to America's participation in the League of Nations and the League Court, and pledged to eternal warfare against pacifism and Communism, the 16th annual convention of the Massachusetts Department of the American Legion got under way today.

The first session of the convention was called to order in the City Theater by Daniel J. Doherty, department commander.

When his gavel fell, but 321 of the 1200 delegates had been seated, but the others were expected during the course of the day.

10,000 TO ATTEND

The total number attending the convention was expected to mount well over the 10,000 mark.

The first convention session, which followed a military band concert outside the theatre, was featured by the recommendations of Harold F. Bedden, of Springfield, the departmental adjutant.

Urging the Legionnaires to concentrate their attention on the schools, he said:—

"The future work of this organization, together with the Sons of the American Legion, lies within the schools and the colleges of the state and the nation to combat the pacifist and communistic teachings now so rampant.

SCHOOL WORK ASKED

"We must get the principals of our Constitution before the children of the grammar schools.

"I recommend that the department ask our national American-ism committee to lay out a long-time program of a definite nature aimed to combat the un-American teachings now so prevalent throughout the land."

Bedden said that the Legion admitted every person's right to change the government by ballot but urged that the Legion demand the deportation of:

"Any alien who is convicted of belonging to any party dominated by forces abroad and supported by foreign funds."

DEFENSE URGED

He also stressed the need for an adequate army and navy, saying:

"Recent foreign events again show the need of adequate national defenses."

It was in this connection that he appealed to the delegates to renew their opposition to American participation in the League Courts and the League. He also urged the continuance of the battle for the universal draft.

GIRL ATTACKS STIR POLICE PROTEST

Aroused by two girl attacks in Dorchester this week in the early morning hours, residents of the district were preparing a letter of complaint today over lack of police protection, with every incentive offered for lawbreakers to operate in the section.

Stations 11, at Fields Corner, and 13, in Morton street, Mattapan, cover the district as much as it is covered, the residents declare, but where it formerly was a common sight to see a policeman walking his beat, now one is rarely seen, they charge.

ONLY SEVEN OFFICERS

Today it was found that working out of Station 11, on the first half of the night detail, from 6 p. m. to 1 a. m., there are only seven men to cover 29 foot routes, while on the last half, from 1 a. m. to 8 a. m., there are but three men to cover the 29 routes.

And on one morning, there was only one patrolman assigned to cover all 29 of the routes, alone and unaided. During the seven hours of his shift, he managed to cover most of the district and pulled all but six of the boxes—but when he returned to the station his "tongue was hanging out," according to his mates.

This station has six radio patrol cars, with two men each, and two men on the wagon at night, but no motorcycle officers.

Station 13 has no night men on foot at all. It has six radio cars carrying two men each, two motorcycle officers and two men on the wagon.

Residents point out that policemen no longer try doors on beats to see that they have not been jimmied open.

YOUTH IS BROUGHT

No longer need a criminal fear that while he is committing a crime the route officer may pop up at him. All the criminal needs to worry about now, the Dorchester people assert, is the radio cruiser car.

After he waits and sees this go by from his place in a dark shadow, then he knows he is free of danger until the cruiser car swings around again.

Meanwhile, today a tall, slim youth with dark complexion and hair, a rapid talker, was being sought in the girl attacks.

Miss Bessie Novick, 24, of Norwell street, victim of a vicious attack early Wednesday morning, was reported in better condition today.

GIRL AIDS POLICE

Miss Ann Strackseil, of Bullard street, Dorchester, her companion in the taxi ride from the South End, searched police files for the picture of the driver, but was unable to identify him.

Police also wished to question Miss Helen Burns, of Richfield street, Dorchester, who was still in a highly nervous condition at her home following an attack on Tuesday morning by an unknown assailant.

New York, Aug. 16 (INS)—"If you are walking along the streets of Hollywood says Cecil B. De Mille, motion picture director, "and you see a man with beautiful muscular development, you may be sure he is an extra"

"Personality is what makes a star," he declared.

Cleric Killed as Car Runs Wild

FINGERPRINTS ON LABATT'S MACHINE GIVE CLUE

By International News Service

Detroit, Aug. 16—Fingerprints found on the steering wheel of the LaBatt automobile check with a set on record in the Detroit identification bureau, it was announced today. Police refused to reveal the name of the man whose prints tallied with those on the car.

Although the suspect was not named, it was learned that two men wanted for questioning are Harry Fleischer, notorious purple gangster, who was questioned in the Lindbergh kidnaping, and Joe Massie, a Detroit rum runner.

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 16—Telephone contact was established early today with the kidnapers of John S. Labatt, and his release on payment of $150,000 ransom is expected before nightfall.

The ransom money is ready, in the hands of the wealthy brewer's brother, Hugh, who engaged in three phone conversations with the kidnapers between 1 and 3 o'clock this morning. The calls came to the hotel here where the brother of the 50-year-old London, Ont., brewer has established headquarters.

HOTEL CLEARED

After the third phone call the corridors of the hotel were cleared. It was indicated Hugh Labatt had made a rendezvous with the kidnapers for this morning.

Of the second conversation Labatt said:

"I can't get out alone this morning. The corridor outside my room is full of people."

Then there came the third insistent ring.

"Should I answer it?" Labatt asked Chief Inspector Miller of Ontario police.

"Yes" Miller replied. The nature of this conversation was not revealed.

PHONE CALLS CHECKED

Miller and Inspector Gurnett of the provincial police soon left the hotel, saying they were going to get

RAILS MUST PAY PENSION CASH

By Associated Press

Washington, Aug. 16—The railroad retirement board today ordered all class 1 railroads to pay immediately to the United States Treasurer one-tenth of one per cent of their pay rolls for July, to start the fund for the railroad pension law.

The assessment amounts to $355,000, and payments are to be made by August 25.

This order was forecast yesterday, when attorneys for the board in combating an effort of the railroads to obtain an injunction against operation of the act until its constitutionality could be determined, stated that the board had prepared this order and another calling for the names of all employes who would reach the age of 70 by February 1, 1935.

All But Zions to Die Sept. 10!

Zion City, Ill., Aug. 16—World's End! It's coming September 10 Wilbur Glenn Voliva, overlord of Zion, predicted today.

Everyone will die on that day except members of his flock, he said.

He ordered an all-day meeting of his followers for the fateful day, when the faithful will crowd together to watch the rest of the world crumble.

ERA 'Strikers' Start March of Protest to Boston

Fiery speeches and defiant placards today started Lynn's "unionized" ERA workers on a 29-mile march to Boston.

Here they planned to protest to Joseph P. Carney, state ERA administrator, against the one-third slash in their incomes which went into effect Monday, when they were cut from three to two days' work per week.

Half a dozen policemen silently watched these members of the ERA Workers' Protective Union gather on Lynn Common. There were a little less than 100 of them.

Not silent, however, were just as many other ERA workers who had refused to join in the protest march. They filled the air with jeers and cat-calls as the protestants raced their placards that proclaimed:

"We are getting the NRA—the

Man Nears Coma on 11th Day of 'Talking' Malady

By International News Service

Edison, O., Aug. 16—Nearing a stage of coma, Donald L. Campbell, 32-year-old truck driver, today entered the 11th day of his involuntary talking marathon, as medical science strove to control he peculiar malady.

His head almost buried in ice packs, Campbell carried on his seemingly endless and incoherent conversation at the home of his parents here, but his words, once distinctly spoken, now have become slurred mumbles.

Dr. C. S. Jackson, the attending physician, explained that Campbell was a victim of "encephalitis" or inflammation of the brain. Hope is still held out for his ultimate recovery, however.

At times, Campbell's rambling conversation indicated that he was morose but at other periods he broke into laughter as he told of past incidents in his life.

Campbell's illness was traced to an automobile accident, a year ago.

U. S. AGENTS ON SIEGEL CASE

Into investigation of the "spot slaying" of Nate Siegel, Revere tavern owner and former boxer, the federal government stepped today, as state detectives called 78 men and women for a grilling in the bizarre case.

Reports that a beer war was behind the shooting of Siegel and that widest beer is being bottled in a legitimate plant and forced upon dealers in Revere and other sections brought the federal participation in the probe.

1000 CLOTHING WORKERS OUT ON STRIKE

Protesting a wage offer below the regular scale, more than 1000 clothing workers walked out on strike in Boston shops, declaring they would remain out until contract manufacturers restore the scale.

The strike was called by the Boston local of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, following complaints received by Jacob Bloom, general manager.

Morris Hiller, spokesman for the Clothing Manufacturers' Association of Boston, in a statement issued said:

"We have been notified by union officials that certain manufacturers have violated their contracts with the union by attempting to offer wages below the regular scale. The Manufacturers' Association will attempt today to remedy such conditions."

Italian Army Quits Border of Austria

By International News Service

Rome, Aug. 16—Premier Mussolini today ordered the immediate withdrawal of the Italian troops which have been concentrated on the Austrian frontier since the outbreak of the recent Austrian revolt.

Apparently satisfied that Austria's independence is, for the present at least, no longer endangered, Il Duce recalled approximately 50,000 men rushed to the Austro-Italian border within a few hours after Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss was slain July 25.

Withdrawal of the troops indicated Mussolini believes the delicate Central European situation has cooled down sufficiently so there no longer is danger of a fascist-controlled party taking over the Austrian government.

LEGION TOLD TO FIGHT LEAGUE OF NATIONS

fairs, he pointed out that the American Veterans' Association, an offshoot of the National Economy League, would again demand the abolition of present veterans' legislation and the enactment of new measures.

Denouncing these activities, Redden said:

"We are still engaged in fighting our enemies."

RESOLUTIONS OUTLINED

Redden was followed on the platform by John J. Walsh of Walpole, chairman of the resolutions committee.

He said that his group was scheduled to report late in the day, but the principal resolutions that had in the meantime outlined some of been offered. These included:

1—A demand that widows, orphans and dependents of veterans be given at least as much in benefits as the mothers' aid and other welfare aids to civilians;

2—A demand for the reopening of the Chelsea Naval Hospital;

3—Opposition to interest charges on adjusted compensation certificates;

4—A memorial to Congress for a gigantic national lottery for the benefit of ex-soldiers.

CONTROVERSY LIKELY

This last resolution is sponsored by the Old Dorchester 108 and looms as the most controversial issue before the convention.

On the whole, it is expected that fewer resolution pertaining to veterans' benefits will be offered this year beause the state department is backing the national Legion program.

WALSH MAY STAY AWAY

Whether Senator Walsh would go to Brockton was in doubt today. It was generally believed that he would remain away from the convention unless his scouts report that his record is under fire.

In that event, it is believed that he stands ready to cancel all engagements to appear before the legionnaires.

The Legionnaires have taken the cit over completely. Registration of delegates and guests far surpassed the hopes of the Brockton Legion Convention Corporation.

The convention is attracting Legionnaires from all sections of the state and many from other New England states.

Governor Ely, Mayor Mansfield, Mayor Horace C. Baker of Brockton, Congressman Wigglesworth, Henley, Connery and Andrew, and John C. Burke, convention chairman, will address the delegates.

Campaigning for the administrative offices of the state department will begin immediately after the business sessions get under way.

James E. Conway of South Groton, and Jeremiah J. Twomey of Lawrence, both vice-commanders, are the only two who have announced their candidacy to succeed Commander Doherty.

Barry Keenan, of Milton, nationally famous World War hero, is the only other legionnaire to announce his candidacy to date. He seeks election as department vice-commander.

Entertainment of the visiting legionnaires has been provided for in the form of a golf tournament, block dancing parties and dinners.

'Love in Bloom Again?'—Doug Says Wait, and Mary Does

Douglas Fairbanks, looking like a bronzed Don Juan and appearing 15 years younger than his 51 years, arrived in New York aboard the liner Rex yesterday. His first interview with reporters didn't amount to much. He refused to comment on his reported reconciliation with Mary Pickford and branded all such talk as unauthorized. His only statement was "Wait and see." And all the world is waiting.

Our Mary of the films in her latest picture as she reopens the doors of "Pickfair" for a possible re-union with her estranged husband, Doug Fairbanks. Months ago, the perfect marriage of Hollywood's famous couple crashed on the rocks. Since then, many reports of a reconciliation have appeared in print but Mary has been silent about them all. She just went home to wait and maybe she didn't wait in vain. (Pictures from International News Photograph Service.)

Doug Back on 'Business'; Scouts Talk of Re-Union

New York, Aug. 16—A Don Juan, bronzed, nattily dressed in taupe with cream pin-stripe, interesting-looking, slender-hipped, appearing 15 years younger than the 51 years he admits—that was Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., as he arrived on the liner Rex yesterday afternoon.

He is here indefinitely and "on motion picture business" he stated very decidedly, when queried about the reports that Mary Pickford had arrived excitedly and opened their mansion Pickfair in Beverly Hills, Cal., supposedly for a re-union in the home in which they had spent their happiest days together.

He will not be in England when Lord Ashley's divorce suit—naming the leaping motion picture star co-respondent—is tried, if the case comes up in the next year.

But as for Mary Pickford and the lovely Lady Sylvia Ashley, with whom he has constantly been seen in England and in France since he went abroad, conversation about them were taboo.

"I'm really scared to meet the press," he said smiling. "It used to be so different. Now I have to disappoint you boys and girls because I am not going to talk about my personal affairs."

Mary Likens Lost Love to Babe's Toy

By Universal Service

New York, Aug. 16—"Losing a person you love is like taking toys away from babies."

That is the attitude of Mary Pickford, as reflected in an interview to be published today in the Jewish Day. Jean Jaffe, feature writer for the paper, talked with Miss Pickford about her separation from Douglas Fairbanks a few days ago and quotes her as follows:

"I don't indulge in self-pity. The most pitiful sight of all is a self-made martyr.

"But I will not balk at divorce. There is no excuse for not playing the game fairly.

"Life can be a sad affair, but for me it has been grand.

Heiress Ann Whiting Hides After Secret Marriage

By International News Service

New York, Aug. 16—Playing a game of hide-and-seek with society friends, disapproving parents and inquisitive reporters, Ann Whiting, heiress to the Crowley publishing house millions, and Julius Murray, a department store clerk, were reported hiding in Greenwich Village today after their secret marriage.

Miss Whiting and Murray dropped in at the municipal building April 21, it has just been revealed, and had the knot tied which provided the elite with a new bit of gossip.

HITHER AND YON

Since then they have been flitting from house to house, successfully eluding all who would congratulate—or criticize—them.

The former Miss Whiting is 20 and her husband 22. They met at a Greenwich Village party last winter and 'twas love at first sight.

HOME SCORNED

Ann never has taken to society and her desire for the companionship of the masses caused her to leave an exclusive private school to become a social worker.

RELIGIOUS WAR IN BACKGROUND OVER VOTES

International News Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1934, by International News Service)

Berlin, Aug. 16—The furious religious strife now engulfing Germany will not affect Reichsleader Adolf Hitler's chances for nearly unanimous approval in Sunday's election, it was indicated today by a survey of the Catholic and Protestant circles.

In the course of this survey it was almost definitely established that more than 250 priests had been taken into custody but many have been since released. However, scores still remain in custody, the total unascertainable.

Many priests who were arrested in Bavaria and the Rhineland, the biggest Catholic sections of Germany, were later released due to the insistence of Papal Nuncio Orsenigo who was reported to have threatened to resign his post as a protest unless the priests were released.

BANNED AS MASONS

Several hundred Protestant clergymen have been removed from their pulpits because they are Masons. They have been disciplined or forbidden further to hold office. Some are even forbidden to enter the towns of their former pastorates.

The latest disciplinary action heard of was the arrest Tuesday night of the Rev. Veidt, pastor of St. Paul's church at Frankfort-Ammain. He was arrested, quizzed and released but has been forbidden since to enter his church or his parsonage.

Veidt had been at St. Paul's since 1905.

Catholic circles insist generally that they will vote for Hitler because they do not blame him for the acts of his radicals who, they say, got out of hand. These circles as well as Protestant ones are relieved at the dissolution of the "Pangerman League."

Religious circles had long insisted that the influence in the party and in the nation of Alfred Rosenberg, head of the Nazi Kultur movement and leader of the Nazi pagans, be clipped.

PROTESTANT APPROVAL

Protestant church people will vote for Hitler Sunday but afterwards will insist that the pressure be taken off them.

Some of the German Nazi circles are embittered at Archbishop Faulhaldid and Habicht, the leaders of the Austrian Legionnaires, the self-styled Austrian Nazis who were encamped at Munich. The German Nazis now blame them for the debacle in Austria brought about by Chancellor Dollfuss' death.

ERA MARCH ON HUB STARTS

National Run-Around!"

And:

"Mr. Roosevelt, We Are Not Better Off Than Last Year!"

Police seized the banners when they first made their appearance, but soon returned them to the marchers on orders from their superiors.

The nondescript parade was whipped into line by its leader, Joseph Leeds, Communist candidate for Congress from the Seventh District. He said to reporters:

"More than300 of us met in a mass meeting at Statchers' Hall last night. We voted unanimously to make this protest parade. We are workers, and we have a worker's right to protest."

Leeds said it would take his men two and a half hours to make the trek through Revere and Chelsea and Charlestown into Boston. Hecklers jeered as the marchers started off into the unseasonable wind that swept across the marshes.

ERA authorities explained that the reduction in working time was forced by the alternative of laying off 550 of the workers altogether or putting all on a shorter week.

PROVIDENCE POLICE PROBED; PERIL TO HOME RULE SEEN

GOVERNOR GREEN ASKS ALL AVAILABLE EVIDENCE

By Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

Providence, Aug. 16—Stories of "goose-step militarism" in the Providence police department—and stories of alleged state and municipal buck-passing with the payroll of men who protect this city from organized crime a pawn in an underworld game of vote-getting—will be sifted tomorrow by a legislative investigating committee, named by House Speaker William E. Reddy.

Reddy's duly-nominated probers, only guessed at today, will include. It is now claimed, Deputy Speaker of the House James H. Kiernan, (Dem), who originally sponsored the present police department investigation; and Representative Benamin J. Ciancialrulo (Rep), who was the "Father" of the bill three years ago creating the Providence Board of Public Safety.

HOME RULE MENACED

Ciancialrulo now is outstanding among the police "new deal" advocates. He sees a menace to "home rule" he says in current activiti s of the safety board.

Commenting on the forthcoming investigation today, Governor Theodore F. Green again called on the public to come forward with any evidence in its possession.

He again stressed the fact that the demoralization of a police department is most easily brought about by making the men uncertain of their posts.

He cited the case of Detective Captain James J. Cusick, who was demoted to uniform duty.

"Furthermore, say witnesses, already called it is claimed "militarizing" of the Providence police department has gone so far that experienced officers, charged with failure to meet marksmanship requirements on the municipal pistol range have been obliged to go on their beats unarmed, in punishment.

PERSECUTION CHARGED

Outstanding abuse of the "foreign" police administration here, according to those registering themselves in protest against it, has been the alleged abuse of the statute permitting arrests "on suspicion."

Definite charges of "persecution," it was claimed tonight, will be made before the legislative committee.

Frugal Jail Meal for Mrs. Coo at Trial Recess

Mrs. Eva Coo, middle-aged boarding house keeper, on trial for the alleged murder of Harry Wright, ne'er-do-well employe, is shown enjoying lunch during a court recess at Cooperstown, N. Y. Mrs. Coo and Mrs. Martha Clift, now in jail awaiting separate trial, are accused of causing Wright's death by running an automobile over him in order to collect insurance.

LAWYER PLEADS FOR LIFE OF 'LITTLE EVA'

By International News Service

Cooperstown, N. Y. Aug. 16—District Attorney Don Grant today made ready to ask a jury of farmers to send "Little Eva" Coo to the electric chair for the murder of Harry Wright, local ne'er-do-well.

As the state's first witnesses prepared to take the stand, Sunny Jim Byard, tall, soft-spoken dean of the local bar, burst his first bombshell against the walls of evidence the state has secretly prepared.

"Eva never murdered Harry Wright," he said. "He died of an internal hemorrhage resulting from a wasting disease. She was broke and needed money. She carried his body up the mountain and then ran over it with her car to make it look like accidental death. She wanted double indemnity from the insurance companies."

According to the defense barrister, Eva Coo learned from doctors that Harry Wright, had not long to live, so she plastered his life with insurance policies.

"She may have been the most notorious woman in the country," Byard said. "A lot of good men got in wrong through her. They say around here she's rotten to the core. But Eva Coo is no murderess."

MOTHER BRINGS TWEEDS FOR ROOSEVELT

By Associated Press

New York, Aug. 15—With a piece of tweed for "her boy, Franklin," Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, mother of the President, returned today from a two months' trip to Europe on the liner Ile de France. She said:

"I want him to make it up into a suit. I bought it in Scotland and it's a bargain. It cost just five pounds, but it's splendid tweed."

She also brought her son firsthand news that "England and France are strong for him." She chuckled:

"That's why they made such a fuss over me."

PAPERS PRAISED

Did she know she had been hailed as "the greatest hit in Paris since Lindbergh" and "the most effective good-will ambassador this country has sent to Great Britain?" She asked:

"My, my! Did the papers say that? It takes the newspapers to say nice things."

The radiant 78-year-old lady received reporters in her stateroom after a 20-minute delay. Her secretary sent word she had slept late.

Asked about her chat with Queen Mary over the teacups at Buckingham Palace, she said:

"Oh, we didn't talk about anything special. The King, of course, asked about Franklin. My son met him years ago.

"NICE AT PALACE"

"It was nice at the palace because we three were alone—much nicer than if I'd had to go with a crowd."

A photographer informed her he had recently made pictures of President Roosevelt with two of his sons, Franklin and John. She asked:

"How did Franklin and Johnny behave? You know, they consider having their father President a definite handicap.

"I give them a grandmother's advice, and say he's something to live up to."

She said everyone she saw wished her son success.

"All classes, rich and poor. They seemed interested in what he's doing.

"Of course, people who aren't for him didn't tell me."

Mrs. Roosevelt sailed June 18 with her nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon, and their children.

BYRD IS ABLE TO TAKE WALK

By International News Service

Little America, Antarctica, Aug. 16—For the first time in weeks Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd ventured outside his snowbound hut yesterday to take a short walk over the ice. The temperature at his advance weather observation base, 123 miles south of the expedition's headquarters, was 61 degrees below zero.

Dr. Thomas Poulter and the two other members of the tractor relief party, which on Monday fought its way through to the snowbound cabin in which Byrd had spent 14 weeks alone, helped the admiral up the hatch of his sunken shack and walked with him.

Their wireless report indicated Byrd's health is already on the mend, but he walked slowly and unsteadily. The relief expedition found the admiral ill from the fumes of his kerosene stove and an unbalanced diet.

Little Junior and Frances Clift are too young to realize the danger that besets their mother, Mrs. Martha Clift, and they continue their children's games around the hay rake. Their mother has been accused of being an aid to Mrs. Eva Coo following the death of Harry Wright. (Pictures from International News Photograph Service.)

WALKATHON RULING DUE

Barnstable, Aug. 16—Whether the license of the Walkathon contest, denounced by Harwich selectmen as "damaging to public morals," would be restored or not today, rested with Judge Paul M. Swift.

Sitting as master at Barnstable court, Judge Swift took under advisement the petition of the Walkathon proprietors that the Harwich selectment be enjoined against closing the contest.

Complaints from parents of Cape Cod girls, who told police that their daughters were being given drugs in order to persuade them to enter the contest, and claims by health authorities and women's clubs that the contest was operated under unsanitary conditions, led to the closing.

The Walkathon opened on June 1. It was in operation over two months before selectmen at Harwich took action against it. The promoters, headed by Edward Murby and Albert Dolins, both of Taunton, succeeded in obtaining a temporary order restraining the selectmen from interfering with the contest until a court decision has been reached.

SANROMA WEDS PIANO PUPIL

Jesus Maria Sanroma, solo pianist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra and teacher at the Boston Conservatory of Music, and Miss Mercedes Parsarell, one of his former pupils, have been married in San Juan, Puerto Rico, it was learned today. The event became public when Sanroma informed his parents of the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Sanroma of Glencoe street, Brighton, parents of the groom, declared that their son met his wife two years ago at the University of Puerto Rico. There he conducts a summer course in music. She was one of his pupils at the conservatory here last year.

Sanroma has been piano soloist with the Symphony orchestra for the past ten years. His bride is the daughter of a wealthy Puerto Rico tobacco merchant.

Marion Nixon Weds Seiter Today in Gretna Green

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor

Hollywood, Aug. 16—At noon today the famous "marrying judge" of Yuma, Earl A. Freeman, will say the words that make Marion Nixon, famous little screen actress, the wife of William Seiter, screen director.

The marriage of Miss Nixon and Seiter is no surprise to Hollywood, although some newspapers denied the story that they would be married within a few days.

Just two days ago, Miss Nixon was granted her final divorce decree from Eddie Hillman, polo player and Beverly Hills millionaire.

Seiter formerly was married to Laura La Plante, blonde motion picture actress, who gained a divorce from him recently in Alps, Latvia. A few months after the divorce, Miss La Plante married Irving Asher, Warner Brothers producer in Great Britain.

The romance of Seiter, one of Hollywood's best known screen directors, and Miss Nixon, equally known as an actress, started when he directed her in a motion picture on the RKO-Radio studio lot. From that time on they were seen constantly in the company of each other.

The bridal pair, following the ceremony in Yuma, will leave for a boat trip.

Former Wife of Rudolph Valentino Weds

Spanish Nobleman Is New Mate of Natacha Rambova

Copyright, 1934, by Universal Service, Inc.

Paris, Aug. 16—The island romance of Natacha Rambova, former wife of the late Rudolph Valentino, and a Spanish nobleman, Don Alvaro de Urzais, has just been sealed with a quiet church wedding at Palma, Mallorca, it was revealed by friends here.

The ceremony on the romantic island, now so popular with Americans, followed a recret civil marriage in Paris some time ago.

Natacha has been the reigning Queen of Mallorca. She has made a fortune in Mallorca real estate, buying up villas and renting them to visiting Americans.

She met the dark, handsome Don, who is a member of the oldest Basque families in San Sebastian, while he was visiting Paris. They have just bought a huge villa, overlooking the Mediterranean sea near Palma, and a yacht.

Though she is not a Catholic, Natacha Rambova agreed to the church ceremony in deference to the wishes of Don Alvaro's family. Only a few Americans were present.

BABY LINDY HAS LONE BIRTHDAY

By Associated Press

North Haven, Me., Aug. 16—Jon Morrow Lindbergh celebrated his second birthday here today in the seclusion of the summer estate of his grandmother, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow.

Maybe Jon had a party, but if he did very likely his most important guest and perhaps his only one was his faithful nurse, Betty Gow.

He will have to celebrate without the assistance of his parents, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, who left the island several days ago. A parentless birthday, however, will not be a novel experience for the Lindbergh's second son. A year ago, when he celebrated his first, his distinguished mother and father were in distant lands on their extensive aerial survey expedition.

Stupid Taxation Ban Demanded by Child

By RICHARD WASHBURN CHILD

Noted Author and Diplomat and former U. S. Ambassador to Italy.

Scientific taxation!

Where is it?

The lack of it may be comical in prosperity, or where taxation is light, but stupidity in taxation gets to be a tragic muff of government when depression is on us and taxation to provide for emergency relief—or, worse yet, revolution by purchase—goes up so that 30 or 40 per cent of the people's whole income slops onto the ground of public expense.

Anyone would think that the best experts we can summon at home—or even borrow from abroad would be assembled to tell us how to escape the political muddling and would be called to sit at the President's elbow to advise him and tell Congress, when it next meets, the neatest, cleanest, cheapest way to get the enormous taxes needed to pay the enormous charges on government loans and pay the piper for the freshets and floods.

Richard Washburn Child

POPULATION PAYS

The need now is not to supply at the top enough wealth to drain off at a bunghole; today the job is get enough in at the top to fill a barrel without a bottom.

Such a body of experts would probably remind the country of two important facts.

One—No government is any magic source of wealth. Down to a penny, whatever it pays it has to get out of the hide of the population.

Two—No taxation—except inheritance taxes perhaps—has yet been devised that prevents the payer of taxes from distributing the loss to the whole population. The taxed landlord gets it out of the tenants' rent. The taxed manufacturer gets it out of the consumers' ears.

On top of those two facts, which most of us always forget like Simple Simons, there are other facts to be dealt with that are not dealt with sufficiently now.

TAXES OFTEN DEFEAT THEMSELVES

It is easy to tax industry until there is no industry to tax.

It is easy to tax so heavily that money runs out of the country or hides away.

It is easy to tax in such a complicated manner that collecting the taxes costs more than the taxes yield.

Such are the tendencies of hot-foot governments without the brakes of scientific knowledge.

Here we are today—the millions of us and the national government, whatever the administration of the last forty years—taxing, taxing, taxing—and all slipshod, hit-or-miss, grab-and-muff taxation.

CONSUMER CONSIDERED

The Hearst press has little for its pains in recommending a manufacturers' sales tax to Washington, except a sour reluctance.

The reluctance is sour because it cannot explain even why it is reluctant, except to say, "we are afraid."

Afraid of what?

"Well," the answer is, "we who know nothing about it are afraid that the consumer who knows nothing about it wouldn't like it."

It is impossible to get a better answer than that even, though the consumer may realize that income taxes come back on him with still a harder bump, and also that the income taxes throttle industry.

Without arguing now about the lost opportunity of the sales tax, the country may regard the last many years of hit-or-miss, political prejudice taxation as a scandal of mismanagement in a government which some men now propose shall extend its functions to running everything.

Youth Lands in Irons to Answer Slaying Charge

By Associated Press

New York, Aug. 16 — Arthur Wilson, young Cleveland steel chemist, was brought back in irons to the United States aboard the liner Pan America today, to answer to the charge of murdering Irene de Bolt in the desert near Van Horn, Texas, nine months ago.

Young Wilson was brought back from Port au Spain, Trinidad, where he was taken from the liner Lady Nelson by British Guiana police May 5.

He will be taken to El Paso, Texas, tonight for trial on charges of murdering the 30-year-old Cleveland matron.

Wilson spoke reservedly in answer to questions but wore a cheerful smile. He said:

"I guess I'm in a spot, but there's one thing I'd like to say. If you have any explanation of how I could have profited by what happened I wish you would call me up at El Paso."

Wilson said he wanted to communicate with his mother, Mrs. A. M. Wilson, of Akron, Ohio.

The smile left Wilson's face as he explained that he had written his mother. He said in a low voice:

"I did not write because I had some hope that maybe she would think it someone else. I would like to spare her this—but I would like to see her."

He said he did not know how he would raise funds for the trial.

Wilson said he was turned in to police by a shipmate who "was supposed to be my best friend and counsellor."

TODAY

ter written to a Boston bond house, urging "big profits to be made from NOT raising hogs." This parody on our ERA of plowing under cotton, cutting down wheat just before a drouth, drowning farrow sows, full of little pigs, reads, in part, as follows:

"Mr. Blank of Northampton has a friend who received a government check for $1000 this year for not raising hogs. So Blank now proposes to get a farm and go into the business of not raising hogs; says not raising hogs appeals to him very strongly.

"Do you think capital could be provided by the issuance of a non-hog-raising gold bond?

"His friend who got the thousand dollars got it for not raising 500 hogs; now we figure we might easily not raise 1500, or even 2000 hogs, so you see the possible profits are only limited by the number of hogs we do not raise."

This would puzzle Solomon, the wise man, multiplied by ten thousand. Your government has "resumed exporting gold." One million dollars worth went to France yesterday, the first since April, 1933.

Somebody says it is a "gesture" to support the dollar.

Americans who were not allowed to keep gold that belonged to them, and had to turn it over to the government for little more than half its present value, would call that a silly gesture.

It is understood that the United States Treasury authorities have a billion or two of public money with which they may play, according to their judgment, "to uphold our exchange."

Shipping to France gold metal, considered too good for Americans that formerly owned it, will strike the public as distinct "child's play." The intelligent French may well laugh at our antics.

LOANS FOR HOME REPAIRS REFUSED BY BANKS HERE

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

Uncle Sam said technically a few days ago that New England home owners could obtain loans at financial institutions with which to repair or improve their dwellings—

BUT—

Uncle Sam's I. O. U.'s to Boston banks are not, as yet, worth the paper the national housing act was written on. A tour of Boston banks revealed that astounding paradox. Just try to get some money on the government's sayso from Boston's money circles. Just try!

Theoretically, the national housing act has gone into operation in New England with Charles A. Birmingham, former law instructor at Boston College and Boston University, the regional director. Theoretically the machinery is being whipped into action to put teeth into the law.

BUT—

As a practical matter, as far as eight banks are concerned—and they served as an indication to the response which other banks will make—a "character loan" for home renovation and modernization is just a gag.

4,000,000 MEMBERSHIP

The government said, that the building industry needs regeneration and rejuvenation. Unemployment in this field was estimated at about 4,000,000. Some of these family heads must be put back to work, the economists agree. Americans must resume decent living standards. American homes must be revamped and reclaimed in a nationwide building rehabilitation to dress up America in a two-fold humanitarian and sociological movement.

But as far as Boston banks are concerned, it is a campaign for which the ahle Greeks had a word—a descriptive word of pungent meaning.

The high moguls of Boston's high finance know that Uncle Sam has spoken, but what he said is still an enigma.

Frankly, they admitted that they don't know what it is all about.

BANKS PASS BUCK

Three national banks passed the buck directly to the savings banks. Two savings banks confessed they were still quibbling over the legality of their participation in such a campaign. The co-operative banks openly expressed opposition. On industrial bank was in a transitional stage.

A young friend of mine made the rounds of Boston's banks to get a first-hand picture of how the financial institutions had equipped themselves to support the federal project.

At no place that she went was she questioned as to the kind of property she had, what she wanted to do for it and with it, how much she desired, or any particulars, personal or otherwise.

VISITS EIGHT BANKS

She visited eight banks. Each banker, similingly, threw cold water at the entire idea. At most places she only got as far to say:

"I would like a housing loan, as the government has outlined, for my house . . ."

Her first stopping place was a national bank. The executive looked at her quizzically as she spoke, then he told her plenty . . . the administration isn't as yet in operation . . . go down to the Industrial Building . . . they'll tell you down there . . . national banks probably won't handle it . . . go to the savings bank where your mortgage is held . . . read the newspapers and found out.

Surprised and discouraged she moved on to a savings bank . . . no, we can't help you . . . don't know enough about it . . . we haven't learned if we can participate in it . . . if it is legal . . . our legal adviser now studying it . . . sorry we can't help you . . . there has been a lot of talk, but it takes time to get those things going, you know . . . read the newspapers . . .

ENCOUNTERS RED TAPE

And so to another national bank . . . My good woman, you are much too early . . . there is no machinery . . . we have no blanks . . . don't know what our instructions are . . . we may not be able to handle such loans . . . it would be best to follow it in the newspapers . . .

Three blocks over and into an industrial bank . . . we haven't heard yet . . . no doubt we will . . . our vice-president is at the head of it . . . you are too early . . . come in next week . . . yes, I know, we advertised, but we aren't ready yet . . . come in later . . .

On to a co-operative institution . . . no instructions yet . . . we have been studying the entire proposition . . . no need for it in Massachusetts . . . the type of person eligible for the loan is the type we have been lending to . . . can't overburden him . . . our banks have plenty for the right creditors . . . can't say what we will do until the board decides . . . keep reading the newspapers.

Regional Director Charles Birmingham is fully aware of the apathetic, willy-nilly attitude of the banks to this project.

"Of course it is a new thing, but it is sound. We need a little time to educate not only to the public but the banks," he said. "It may take days, it may take weeks, but in the end, eventually, it will triumph and be hailed as one of the most expedient and fruitful recovery measures.

"The banks need to be a bit softened. They are conservative for the most part and most always react with luke-warm co-operation to a new venture. But they will realize that these 'character loans' are the safest loans that could be made, that the banks can't lose."

Review Test Ends Tonight

DIANA WYNYARD FRAN LAWTON

Diana Wynyard's film reviewing contest will close at midnight tonight. Boston American readers and Keith Memorial Theater patrons must complete their reviews of the film "One More River" quickly in order to be considered in the $25 and free ticket prize test.

FILM CONTEST CLOSES TODAY

The Boston Evening American-RKO amateur reviewing contest, which will net the lucky winner, $25 and 10 pairs of tickets to Keith Memorial Theater, will close today.

The contest is sponsored by the Boston American and the Keith Theater in conjunction with the picture, "One More River," currently showing at that theater and in which Diana Wynyard, the lovely star of "Cavalcade," heads an imposing cast of artists.

The requirements to participate in this competition are simple. All one has to do is attend Keith Theater, enjoy "One More River" and then write a review of not over 100 words stating what you think of the picture, its direction, entertainment value and success or failures of the stars in their interpretation of the famous Galsworthy novel from which the film was adapted.

All entries must be in the hands of the Boston American Amateur Reviewing Editor, 5 Winthrop square, Boston by midnight tonight. No mail bearing a postmark later than midnight will be considered by the editor. No attaches of either the Boston American or RKO theaters are allowed to be contestants.

The first prize is $10, second, $5, the next 10 each receive a $1 bill. The last 10 winners will each receive a pair of tickets to Keith Memorial Theater.

Today winds up the contest. Try your hand at reviewing a picture and possibly you'll be the lucky winner.

Roosevelt Pushes Home Loans for Public

By International News Service

Washington, Aug. 16—A new administration move to loosen tight credits through the process of "selling" the nation's financial institutions the financial recovery program of the new deal got under way at President Roosevelt's direction today.

Eugene R. Black, who resigned as governor of the federal reserve board yesterday to resume his old post as governor of the reserve bank in Atlanta, Ga., was placed in charge of the new move.

Roosevelt has felt for some time there was a real need for the banks to loosen up on well secured, legitimate loans. He believes the chief obstacle lies in the inculcation of real confidence in the banks. He expects Black to produce this confidence. His job is unprecedented in history and he will talk on his new duties in addition to the work of heading the Atlanta reserve bank.

Something to Say

—not just saying something

A friend of CHESTERFIELD writes us of a salesman who had "something to say":

"I dropped into a little tobacco shop, and when I asked for a pack of Chesterfields the man smiled and told me I was the seventh customer without a break to ask for Chesterfields. 'Smoker after smoker,' he said, 'tells me that Chesterfields click with them . . . that they're milder and taste better. I sell five times as many Chesterfields as I did a while back.'"

Yes, there's something to say about Chesterfields and it takes just six words to say it—"They're mild and yet they satisfy."

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep . . . Vigor . . . Vitality

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. They should pour out thru the bladder 3 pints of fluid a day which contains 4 pounds of waste matter. If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, dumbness, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness. If kidneys don't empty 3 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and keep you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS. A doctor's prescription . . . which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes. Your common sense will tell you that this is impossible. Treatments of this nature may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS . . . the old reliable relief that contains no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

LABOR DEMANDS PAY TO MATCH COST OF FOOD

By Associated Press

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 15—Anticipating the working man will have to pay more next winter for wheat, organized labor served notice today it would expect the weekly pay envelope to show a corresponding increase in wages.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said the executive council was "gravely apprehensive" of labor's economic status because of the prospective rise in living costs, resulting from drouth.

CODE REVISION SOUGHT

In the event of a price rise, Green said the council would seek revision of the codes of fair competition in the major industries to provide for an increase in minimum wage schedules.

The council, foreseeing an increase in the numbers of relief rolls, especially in the drouth area, urged federal authorities to substitute another CWA program for direct relief.

In a further effort to protect labor's interests, Green said the council would oppose, in the reorganization of the NRA:

"Any plan which contemplates extension of the power of private industry over the NRA or the administration of the NRA."

WIDE AUTHORITY

He announced labor would continue to seek representation on the code authorities. Green said:

"We hold that the interests of wage earners can be protected only through governmental administration of the NRA. Should the administration be turned over to industry, labor would be placed at the mercy of powerful employers' interests.

"Through code authorities under present governmental regulation, private industry is given wide authority and power in the administration of fair codes."

Kidnaped Beer Baron's Children Pray for Return

WOUNDED BOY FIGHTS DEATH

Rutland, Vt., Aug. 16—Stephen Battles, 13-year-old Brandon boy who lay 42 hours in the woods unconscious from a revolver wound in his right temple, hung between life and death today at the Rutland hospital.

Physicians who said that barring complications, he had a fair chance to recover, were concerned about possible damage to the boy's eyesight. The bullet passed near the eye muscles and it was feared that they might have been seriously damaged.

In brief periods of consciousness, Stephen told nurses that he accidentally shot himself while playing with his father's .38 calibre revolver.

170 Drowned in Ferryboat Panic

Patna, India, Aug. 16 (INS)—One hundred and seventy men and women were reported to have been drowned today during a panic on an overcrowded ferryboat near the town of Dinhara. The boat began rocking in a swift river current and capsized when the passengers rushed to one side. Thirty were rescued.

some "shut-eye." Gurnett carried a notebook containing a list of telephone exchanges. It was believed a check on the calls was under way.

The term "New York racketeers" was used by Miller in a telephone conversation with another police official, in which he reported on Labatt's calls.

He also referred to a man named "Massey," from "Detroit."

Worn out from two sleepless days, Labatt received the first call at 1 a. m. It brought a renewed display of activity from officers.

After the second call at 1:25 o'clock, Miller was heard to say it sounded "very fishy" to him. A conference was held, and apparently it was decided Labatt should not "go."

POLICE SILENT ON HUNT

"Can I see my brother?" was one of the questions he had asked the voice at the other end of the line.

In the first call he said, "I can't get there till 2:30" and referred to some place "20 miles away. Later the time "5:45" was mentioned.

John Labatt, who suffers from heart disease, was kidnaped Tuesday morning while driving between Sarnia and London.

Authorities maintained a silence today and Hugh Labatt refused to confirm or deny that the kidnapers had made direct communications.

Activity in the case centers today also about the shores of Lake Huron, near Labatt's summer home at Sarnia, Ont. Two provincial police left Sarnia last night for the lake shore after receiving a phone call.

BORDER POINTS WATCHED

There are other indications a search for the kidnapers is being concentrated on United States border points. Officials are maintaining a close watch to prevent the abductors from slipping into the states with their victim.

Regions around Lake Huron offer the kidnapers a ruggedly hideout.

The Royal Canadian mounted police force has been enlisted in Canada's widespread hunt for Labatt, the first person to be kidnaped for ransom in the dominion.

Chief among the flurry of reports was one that the Labatt family, who live at London, Ontario, had been told by the kidnapers that the return of Labatt was likely within 24 hours.

As in the highly-publicized American kidnapings—such as the Lindbergh abduction, the Peggy Mc-Math case in Massachusetts, the O'Connell "snatch" at Albany, N. Y., and the Charles F. Urschel kidnaping at Oklahoma City—the early stages of the Labatt mystery are marked by all kinds of fantastic stories.

MOUNTIES JOIN HUNT

The Labatt kidnapping has acted as a challenge to the Canadian authorities. They are fully alive to the great public clamor that the case be solved as quickly as possible and the abductors be forced to pay for their crime.

All the police resources of the dominion have been brought to play. The famous Canadian Mounted Police are in the hunt for the kidnapers. So are the provincial police and the municipal authorities, and co-operating with them is the United States immigration department.

Swarms of newspaper reporters and photographers are trying to keep pace with the police. The authorities are cagy with their information and the family of the victim are withholding information in the fear they might jeopardize the chances of the missing man.

Score or more police officials and detectives established headquarters on the same floor of the Royal York Hotel where Hugh Labatt is quartered waiting for word from the kidnapers.

MYSTERY MAN IN HUNT

The appearance of a mysterious, stoop-shouldered man at the hotel early this morning aroused considerable curiosity among the press. Although Chief Inspector John Miller called the dark-complexioned stranger a "harmless man," the man spent more than an hour with Labatt. Later he left hurriedly with Inspector Miller. Two policemen guarded a score of reporters as they departed. They ignored all questions.

Later the stranger reappeared and remained behind the locked door of a temporary police headquarters which had been set up opposite the suite where Labatt awaits instructions from the kidnapers. The brewery president's brother said:

"I can and will give any information about this man."

The missing man was whisked out of his parlor car while he was going from his summer home in Sarnia, Ont., to London, Ont., where his brewery is located.

A note left in the car is understood to have advised Hugh Labatt to go to the Royal York Hotel at Toronto before 10 o'clock yesterday morning. Hugh Labatt went, and is still waiting for the "contact call."

MISSING TWO DAYS

The missing brewer was kidnaped Tuesday morning. Details of the manner in which he was abducted are still unknown.

Hugh Labatt was informed it had been reported a second note was received in London, Ont., yesterday from the kidnapers. He said that could not be true, as he had not been informed of such a development.

Labatt has the ransom money of $150,000 with him, according to reports, and apparently he is eager to pay it over for his brother's freedom.

Among the many rumors in circulation was one to the effect that a package—presumably containing the ransom money—was to have been thrown over the Humber river bridge on the outskirts of Toronto. Reporters and photographers rushed to the scene shortly before dawn today, but nothing happened.

Mele Arrest Ends Two-Year Search

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 16 (INS)—A two-year search for Ralph Mele, wanted here for theft of an automobile, and allegedly implicated in the murder of two men in a gas station robbery at Woodbridge two years ago, came to a successful conclusion today with announcement Mele had been arrested late last night in New York city.

Mele will be brought to this city to stand trial on the theft count and, police said, will be charged with accessory in connection with the double murder of Louis Albino and his son, John, in Woodbridge.

Radioactive Food Makes Hens Lay

Moscow, Aug. 16 (INS)—Chickens fed with radioactive food lay 40 per cent more eggs, the All-Union Institute of Livestock Breeding has discovered in a series of experiments designed to find commercial uses for the known influence of radioactive emanations on living organisms.

Fifteen-day-old chicks hatched in incubators increased in weight from 13 to 20 per cent over normal on a diet of radioactive bone meal.

U. S. AGENTS ON SIEGEL CASE

today and learning of the reports said that he will start an investigation.

He conferred at length with Robert W. Coyne of the undercover forces, while State Detectives John F. Stokes and Joseph L. Ferrari were renewing their grilling of witnesses.

The state experts who were responsible for cleaning up the Millen-Faber slayings hoped to question Nate Siegel's widow, Mrs. Clara Gibson Siegel, former vaudeville performer, if her condition warrants, as well as her sister, Mrs. Vera Carrossa of Chicago.

Today the detectives were informed that Mrs. Siegel is planning to go to Chicago, perhaps tomorrow, for a rest in her sister's home, far from the scene of the widow's bereavement, and may remain ten days.

The state investigators reported that they have made "good progress." They admitted investigation centered largely on the beer war angle, first revealed by the Boston Evening American, within a few hours of the shooting.

Two leading figures in Revere's beer trade already have been questioned, one of them, Mario Ingraffia, Massachusetts representative of a Rhode Island brewing concern, admitted an altercation with Siegel at the latter's tavern in North Shore road, Revere, the detectives announced.

Louis Fox, of Revere, partner of Ingraffia, also was questioned at length on his knowledge of Siegel's business and affairs that might furnish a clue to the killers of the former ring champion.

Lights at the state detective quarters in the State House burned until nearly dawn as question after question was flung at witnesses behind closed doors. In addition to Stokes and Ferrari, General Daniel Needham, commissioner of public safety and head of the state police, District-Attorney Foley, Police Chief Edward Tighe of Revere and three Boston police inspectors were present.

The Boston inspectors, Lieutenant Joseph Buccigross, Sergeant Coleman Joyce and Special Officer John Madden, are working on Boston angles of the slaying, but are cooperating with the Revere and state officials.

GUN FOUND ON WITNESS

Ingraffia's alleged argument with Siegel was over a debt owed the brewery man, according to announcement of the detectives.

Ingraffia was found to be carrying a gun when he appeared yesterday for questioning but he exhibited a permit issued by the Cambridge police. He said he obtained the permit because of his need for carrying large sums of money at various times.

Detective Ferrari said he was amazed at the show of public cooperation shown since he entered this case with Lieutenant Stokes yesterday, Said Ferrari:

"Siegel must have had a lot of friends. Everybody seems anxious to see justice meted out in this case. We usually are met with silence in these cases."

FOLEY SCENTS ARREST

District Attorney Foley predicted that questioning would continue about three days with little possibility of arrest before that time. He qualified that statement, however, with:

"Of course one never knows what to expect and we may be fortunate enough to arrest before that time."

While none of the investigators would make any definite announcement, it was intimated by some that the investigation into Siegal's death may mean the re-opening of seven other unsolved gang killings that have taken place within a few years in Revere.

Beebe Drops 3028 Feet For New Sea Record

By Universal Service

Washington, Aug. 16—Dr. William Beebe, National Geographic Society naturalist, achieved his ambition yesterday when he went more than half a mile below the surface of the sea.

The intrepid scientist reached a depth of 3028 feet, exceeding his half-mile goal by 388 feet, and breaking his own record, made last Saturday, when he reached 2510 feet, in company with Otis Barton, of the Geographic Society expedition in Bermuda waters. Captain Beebe said he would not try to beat his own record.

The achievement was conveyed to the society's headquarters here in a cable graphically describing the adventure. Beebe, again accompanied by Barton, spent five minutes at the extreme depth.

Captain Sylvester of the barge Ready, from which the dive was made, advised against going deeper, according to the society's report.

In describing the achievement, the Geographic Society said in a statement:

"At the depth reached the bathysphere was subjected to the tremendous pressure of more than 1300 pounds to the square inch, but showed no leakage.

"Dr. Beebe says this record will stand and future dives will be at lesser depths but for longer duration.

"What Dr. Beebe described as 'an amazingly large unknown fish,' fully 20 feet long was glimpsed at the 2750-foot level. In the opinion of the naturalist this is probably the largest living thing ever seen in the deep sea. The moving mass of flesh could be followed in the blackness, by the luminescence of the small creatures it disturbed."

PWA WILL GIVE AID TO HEAVY INDUSTRIES

By International News Service

Washington, Aug. 16—Lagging heavy industries will be given a sharp boost within the next few months.

Public works administration officials said today a shift in the character of projects being pushed with government funds is expected especially to benefit such industries as steel, metals, construction and heavy fabricated materials of various kinds.

After purely federal projects, such as highway construction, rivers and harbors work, soil erosion and some building provided the sinews of the public works program for months, the trend of non-federal projects is rising rapidly.

PROJECTS EXPLAINED

The non-federal projects, officials explained, include the building of sewage disposal systems, public buildings, water works and a score of various types of projects which involve the use of heavy materials and perhaps less direct hand labor.

The all-time peak of the public works program is expected by September, with more than 2,100,000 persons employed directly or indirectly.

SPURT EXPECTED

Another upward spurt is expected next spring by public works officials. With additional funds from Congress, the public works program may establish a new record next summer.

Expenditures now are around $40,000,000 a week and may rise to $50,000,000 during September.

Fair for Today, Rain Tomorrow

Fair weather for a day is the hope held out today for Boston by the weather man. Good weather today will be dispelled tomorrow by showers is the prediction.

An east wind which swept across the city yesterday sent the mercury down to 61 last night and made Boston one of the coolest cities in the country.

TEXTILE STRIKE VOTE DEFERRED

International News Service

New York, Aug. 16—Indications today in the textile industry were that the question of calling a general strike in the textile industry affecting 500,000 workers would be deferred until later sessions of the convention of the United Textile Workers of America when more southern delegates have arrived.

Yesterday a resolution was adopted by the convention favoring a general strike unless collective bargaining provision of the National Recovery Act is enforced.

Resolutions passed favored a 30-hour week; two machine shifts; adjustment of the stretchout system; and one forging the American Federation of Labor to adopt the industrial union system in place of the present setup of "craftz" unions.

Reese and White on WBZ Tomorrow

Walter and Bob Reese, radio and stage stars of Boston, who, with the former's wife, Mildred, have just finished a week's engagement at the Orpheum theater, will broadcast tomorrow evening (WBZ), at 10. Starting Monday they will be featured on the Stardom Express program over WEEI.

You Hear Him on the Radio

Paul Whiteman . . . Once the Massive Maestro . . . Whom romance made thin . . . And brought him a bride . . . Margaret Livingstone . . . Scintillating screen star . . . Who could not see herself . . . However . . . Scintillating much as Mr. Whiteman's wife . . . And so Paul shucked 100 pounds . . . And became a Rhapsody in Thinness . . . And a benedict . . . Both of which are very becoming to him.

One of those Denver boys . . . You find them under foot everywhere . . . That is, everywhere success is reigning . . . In many professions . . . And Paul hit Denver . . . Via a bassinet . . . Is the Springtime of 1891 . . . He did being supervisor of school music . . . Dr. Wilburforce Whiteman.

Paul was given violin lessons . . . But he turned more to taxicabs than to music as he grew up . . . And loved to drive those first taxis in Denver . . . Until ambition hit him hard . . . And he accepted a viola job . . . In the newly formed Denver Symphony.

Orchestra jobs followed . . . And then came the war . . . And Paul enlisted . . . It being rumored that Navy sailmakers built his uniforms of blue . . . Because even then Paul weighed over 300.

They made him director of a 40-piece navy band . . . And while directing tars . . . Paul began to experiment with jazz music . . . And taming it . . . And softening it . . . Into a new sort of American symphony . . . But when the war ended he took ill . . . And lost 150 pounds . . . Which took him to Santa Barbara, Cal., For convalescence . . . And it was a streak of luck . . . For he started a hotel orchestra there . . . And brought attention to his new technique.

The stage called . . . And record makers . . . And then the Continent . . . And finally radio . . . Until now Paul is an American institution . . . Just like his playing of "Rhapsody in Blue."

DIONNE BABIES GET NEW HONOR

Callander, Ont., Aug. 16—A narrow winding road that heads through the husbands to the little homestead of Olivia Dionne soon may be known as the "Dionne Highway," or "Quintuplet Drive" in honor of the five little sisters who have amazed the medical world.

W. H. Anderson, red cross executive and one of the legal guardians of the babies, said such a suggestion would be submitted to Peter Heenan, minister of northern development.

Outdoor Fair at Hamilton

Outdoor fairs, especially when accompanied by gymkhanas, are certainly lots of fun and are increasing in popularity along the North and South Shores . . . yesterday afternoon the quiet little town of Hamilton, stirred from its usual peacefulness to become a mecca for gorgeous cars, crowds of children with happy mothers and a proud exhibit of horseflesh . . . The fair on the lawn of the Hamilton-Wenham Community House was like a red, white and blue pageant . . . the booths decorated in gay bunting and everything carried out in that color scheme . . .

Across the road, on the American Legion Field, the youngsters of the North Shore staged a riding gymkhana and performed almost unbelievably clever stunts on horseback, from a potato race to "Going to Jerusalem" . . . the ending of the latter afforded the most amusement of the afternoon, with Jeannie McKean and Peter Sortwell tumbling off their mounts onto the last remaining chair at precisely the same moment . . . with the inevitable scramble . . . and having to repeat the process to determine the winner . . .

Miss Anne Sortwell managed the riding events with an efficient and good humored air . . . looking the part of a riding expert, a long duster hiding her habit . . . Her sub-debutante sister, Miss Elise, helped to check the results of the races . . . Her costume of all white was relieved by a red, white and blue bandanna under her chin . . . Mrs. Sortwell, proudly watching the doings, was composed in a soft gray boucle ensemble . . .

On the sidelines, atop a car, the Pentecost twins, both in blue woolen sport dresses, watched with interest the various events . . . An attractive trio, licking popsicles with relish and posing for tintypes together, was Susie Seyburn, dark and very pretty, in a beet red sweater with a white coat, Nancy Blumer, whose white woolen ensemble was hardly adequate to ward off the chill wind that blew across the field . . . and an out-of-town visitor with one of the most beautiful complexions we have ever noticed . . . Miss Armenal Gorman who has just arrived from Dayton, Ohio, to visit her aunt, Mrs. Harcourt Amory at Manchester. She wore a basket weave coat over her white shirtwaist frock and greeted many old friends during the afternoon . . .

Debutante Is Present

Miss Lily and Miss Camilla Warren, guardians of the reservation list for the afternoon, have sweet responsive manners and both were the heighth of fashion in their summer outfits . . . Miss Lily, who is slated for debutante honors this autumn, wore a brown and white striped jacket with a white skirt and her sister's soft gray coat revealed a butterup dress . . . They chatted gayly with George and Charles von L. Meyer, popular gallants of the North Shore set . . .

Mrs. Charles Fanning Ayer, in black, Mrs. Harold Chalifoux in sil white and Mrs. Charles S. Bird were grouped around the tables, which were arranged cabaret style on the field . . . Keenly interested in the proceedings were Mrs. Richard Storey in pale blue, Mrs. Shaw McKean and Mrs. Harvey Bundy, at a table together . . .

Pauline Moore

Mrs. Paul Moore of New Jersey, familiar in these parts because of her family's prowess in the saddle, was accompanied by her daughter, Miss Pauline, soon to be wed to Mr. Frederick Dearborn of New York . . . They are the guests of Mrs. William H. Moore at Prides Crossing . . . Miss Moore's yellow dress was topped by a gayly printed jacket . . .

Also at the ringside; Jane Wigglesworth, a cute youngster, Rev. and Mrs. F. A. "DAMES" CAST TO BEUSED FOR NEW FILM -:- MOVIES HERE ARE REVIEWED

"Gold Diggers of 1935" Will Be Screened With Ruby Keeler Taking Leading Role

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

Los Angeles, Aug. 16—Not many pictures rate a repeat. "Dames" has a cast that the Warner clan reckons is good enough to keep intact. That's why "Gold-Diggers of 1935" will have a duplicate lineup of talent.

Down to the smallest character "Gold-Diggers" will have the "Dames" cast starting with Ruby Keeler, Dick Powell, Joan Blondell, Hugh Herbert, Guy Kibbee and Zasu Pitts and ending with a repeat as far as possible on extras, chorus, etc. "Dames" makes its bow in New York August 16 at the Strand. Al Jolson, who is related to the picture only by marriage to Ruby Keeler, will act as master of ceremony.

What did the movies do before the Damon Runyon vogue. They relied on good old gangster melodrama or stage plays to fill the gap. Now all Hollywood is looking around for a Runyon classic to film. B. P. Schulberg has one in his family, handed down to posterity by an agent who sells thees rare specimens. "Broadway Financier" is Schulberg's classic and it's to have Sylvia Sidney as its star with Marion Gering as the director and Gladys Lehman and William R. Lipman writing the adaptation. Miss Sidney follows "Red Woman," her next, with the Runyon story.

Chatter in Hollywood

Katharine Hepburn, who has rivaled Greta Garbo in her ephynx-like silence and her refusal to mix socially, with the Hollywood movie folk, is stepping out. Miss Hepburn, surprising as it sounds, gave a dinner party recently for eight guests, taking them into the Bowl. Those who were on the exclusive Kate's list were Laura Harding (her closest friend), Leland Heyward who is still rumored as being romantically interested in La Hepburn, Gregory La Cava, Josephine Hutchinson and Jimmy Townsend who is Miss Hutchinson's greatest admirer.

The funniest thing I have heard in a long time is the story about King Kennedy, son of a wealthy Beverly Hills family. King and Dickson Morgan wrote a play called "What, No Yachts," under the name of Richardson Keating, and produced it as Ellison Hayden. It's the story of a kid who stumbles into movie fame through the clean picture vogue and his knowledge of insects and butterflies. Two film producers were told the story and sent for a script of the play to read. King with only one copy, the one they are using in the show, had to rush out and have it copied. The play is a comedy drama and is really amusing.

"The Lost Patrol" may not have established a record as a box office sensation, but it established a record as a really artistic production. Radio is planning another on the same order with Cliff Reid, who produced "Lost Patrol," producing "West of Pecos," a Zane Grey yarn in the same style and motif. John Ford, director of the No. 1 success is signed to direct the second edition.

Sometimes Warner Oland wishes that his Chinese makeup weren't so effective. The minute there is an oriental wanted to do the heavy work in a movie, he is at once paged. He had a vacation all laid out for himself to go to his ranch in Mexico when he was prevailed upon to play General Yu in "The Painted Veil." Even a Greta Garbo picture wasn't enough to keep him away from his pilgrimages to his hideout in Mexico, but when MGM said no one else could play the part, Mr. Oland unpacked his suitcase and accepted the compliment.

A Line or Two

Too hot for shocks. Raquel Torres has a snakeskin bathing suit. Even a pretty girl with Miss Torres's body should find it a bit trying to look snakish in this weather. She and her millionaire husband, Stephen Ames, sail for Europe in a few months. Raquel is booked for another British International picture. A letter on my desk from Lanny Ross states that he has sent sworn statements to Radio Star magazine, saying that he is not married and neith r is he the father of a child. Attached to the letter is a statement from Olivia White, attractive manager of the popular radio favorite, saying that she is not married to Lanny Ross nor is he married to anyone else. So that's that. Corinne Griffith is off for New York in September to talk over a stage play which George Abbott plans to produce this fall. Bad luck for poor Dorothy Gulliver. She has been supporting her family by doing extra work but now she has been badly hurt in an automobile accident and her doctor says it will be three months before she can report to the studios again.

Film Fare on Boston Screens

Boston's first-run motion picture houses offer new and diverting screen fare for the coming week, with program changes scheduled for today, tomorrow and Saturday.

Opening today at the Paramount and Fenway is a double feature program which presents "Crime Without Passion," a melodrama directed, produced and written by the noted collaborators, Ben Hecht and Charles MacArthur, a pair whose many dramatic successes have scored substantial hits. Claudia Rains, Stanley Ridges, Whitney Bourne and Margo, a new screen discovery, are in the cast. The companion picture is "She Was a Lady," with Helen Twelvetrees, Donald Woods, Ralph Morgan and Monroe Owsley among the featured players.

At the Keith Boston, Joan Lowell in person shares honors with her film "Adventure Girl," made in the jungles of Guatemala and aboard the schooner "Black Hawk." A melodramatic story is woven into the graphic and authentic narrative of the perilous expedition. On the same bill is "Their Big Moment," with Zasu Pitts, Slim Summerville, William Gaxton, Kay Johnson and Frank Morgan in the cast, promising hilarious comedy from beginning to end.

Brigitte Helm, newly discovered star of the European studios, returns to the screen at the Fine Arts in "Inge and Her Millions," in which she has the role of a lovely crook who finds that romance and smuggling won't mix. There are English subtitles for this newest of German film releases. The all-English talking and singing operetta, "Farewell to Love," co-starring Jan Kiepura, famous Polish tenor, and Heather Angel is the companion picture.

Opening tomorrow at the Metropolitan is "Dames," a lavishly produced musical film, heralded as another "Gold-diggers," and featuring a brilliant cast headed by Dick Powell and Ruby Keeler as the romantic pair. Joan Blondell, Zasu Pitts, Guy Kibbee and other favorites appear in prominent roles.

JIM ROOSEVELT SEEN AS AID TO CURLEY

By Bernard J. Doherty

Probability that James Roosevelt, son of the President, would be drawn into the battle between former Mayor James M. Curley and General Charles H. Cole for the Democratic nomination for governor because of his position on the Washington staff of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, chief of the National Recovery Administration, loomed today as a possible development in the political picture.

Those two principals were Director E. A. Dolbeare, of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, and Norman Lewis, President Roosevelt's appointee to the Social Security Board.

It is known that Governor Ely resigned the chairmanship of the committee to name a State Democratic ticket at Chicago, because of the serious illness of his wife. The presence of Ely and Bowles would tend to give a complexion that the national administration was friendly to the cause of Cole.

CURLEY ADMIRER

In any event, the fact remains that Governor Ely made a point on declining as the opening of the Cole campaign which has been mapped out for the week of August. The presence of the two distinguished Democrats at such a widely popular

On Saturday night there will be a public reception to General Cole at the Cole Ward headquarters at Brockton.

FREED YOUTH IS SEEKING JOB

Lowell, Aug. 16—Carroll F. Smith 21 was hunting for a job again today, after spending such a usually discouraging task the most delightful he had ever engaged in.

For young Smith, son of Dr. Forster H. Smith, today stood cleared of all connection with the $1,000 payroll robbery from the Union Old Lowell National Bank. Judge Frederic A. Fisher spoke the magic word "discharged." This gave Carroll his freedom after he had been held in East Cambridge jail awaiting trial.

Friends who jammed the courtroom, gave the Smiths an ovation as they hurried to carry the glad news to the boy's mother at her Appleton street apartment.

Arthur Connellier, 64, who had known Smith since he was six years old, refused to be swerved from his identification of Smith despite cross-examination by Attorney Edward J. Tierney. He told of seeing a youth, whom he was sure was Smith, with two other men carrying money boxes from a payroll car to another automobile.

"It gets right down to throat-ease, doesn't it?"... asks Warren William

[RECENT OLD GOLD CONVERT]

Dear Mr. William: —

You are right. Throat-ease IS the key to better tobacco quality. In fact, it tells you almost everything you want to know about a cigarette.

For example: If a cigarette is really free of backbite and rasp, you know it is made of pure tobacco—without artificial flavoring. Its smoothness tells you, too, that its tobaccos are of fine quality, properly sun-ripened and aged.

As you have discovered, Mr. William, the cigarette with the greatest throat-ease likewise has the finest flavor. In the choicest tobaccos, throat-ease and taste appeal just naturally go hand in hand.

Sincerely,
P. LORILLARD COMPANY, INC.
ESTABLISHED 1760

P. S.—The gist is this, Mr. William:—
No better tobacco grows than is used in Old Gold. And it's pure. That's why Old Golds are easy on the THROAT and NERVES.

North End Youngsters Swing Picks to Get Playground

JOSEPH SANTONIO NICK PLEGRINE SALVATORE MACALISO NICK CIAMPO

Forward, Young America! Boys in the Prince street neighborhood of the North End energetically went to work with picks and shovels when the playground they sought from the city was not forthcoming. They are clearing a spot of vacant land for future games and swing their picks and shovels with enthusiasm. Joseph Santonio and Nick Plegrine are cleaning up; Salvatore Macaluso and Nick Ciampo are "making little ones out of bigs ones" with their picks. Their work is a labor of love. This Is Life by
ROBERT E. ROGERS

Robert E. Rogers

The children of Medford certainly owe a debt of gratitude to their school committee, which has just announced that the opening day of school is to be postponed from September 6, a few days after Labor Day, to September 11. And I can see the children of less fortunate communities memorializing their less intelligent school boards urging them to go and do likewise.

I think more people will agree that the first half of September in our climate runs a very good chance of being uncomfortably warm. Likewise, our Junes are usually fairly cool and comfortable. Yet sacred as the law of the Medes and the Persians, which altereth not, seems to be our custom that closes school in the middle of June and re-opens school on the second day after Labor Day. If Labor Day comes late the children get a slight break, but if it is early the first weeks of school are likely to be weeks of discomfort in which nothing much can happen in the way of intellectual effort.

It didn't use to be so. The chances are that in the old days there weren't enough school days in the year. Most communities were rural or semi-rural and the children's labor was needed from seeding-time in the spring until the late harvest was over. The worst months of the winter, too, the period of blizzards and thaws, frequently saw school suspended because it was impracticable for the youngsters to get to school. Nevertheless, the old arrangement did cut down on schooling at the periods of the year when it had to be followed under greatest difficulties and allowed it to be pursued when the temperature and the season made for the greatest efficiency of mental effort and the pursuit of knowledge. And there is little evidence that such a system did not turn out as intelligent, hard-working, and hopeful students as our more elaborate system of today.

What has happened, of course, is that the whole calendar of the summer and fall has been for many years now at the mercy of an absolutely arbitrary observance, that is increasingly losing its purpose and usefulness—called Labor Day. Labor Day became a holiday back in the days when the American people was not yet vacation conscious, when the uses of leisure, the advantages of a summer interruption in the routine were not sufficiently understood, when our people did not understand the therapy of the country and the seashore, the invigorating properties of the open air, the ozone of sea and mountains, of the sunlight on the lightly-clad body.

Above all, Labor Day was instituted when a vacation had to be a static period at a resort or hotel. Today, every weekend can be a vacation for every family that owns a car, new or old. Now that the five-day week is almost a matter of course, there should be no reason why the vacation season cannot be prolonged well into the warm and sunny and bland month of September, that many call the pleasant month of the year. Why can it not so be prolonged?

Because the dead hand of Labor Day—which is no longer a "Labor Day" in any real sense of the word determines the date of opening school, sends parents and children packing up and hastening homeward, and as a consequence closes Vacation Land tight before you can say Jack Robinson. From mountain to seashore, from the biggest and snootiest hotels down to the humbler resorts and the great public reservations, Vacation Land closes down. No matter how beautiful and mild the weather may be, what is the use of going anywhere when there's nowhere to go?

And all for a holiday which may have once been important and necessary in reminding struggling labor of its solidarity by parades and speeches, but which now is observed only perfunctorily, with the sons of labor themselves using it as a last opportunity to get away from the city for a last glimpse of the woods and the sea. Labor Day freezes the summer, freezes vacation time, the summer resort business, which here in New England is so huge and profitable, and takes the children off the playgrounds into the hot school rooms while the enervating atmosphere of summer and play still lingers in the lazy air. It perpetuates the habits of customs of half a century ago.

Besides, Labor no longer needs the encouragement that Labor Day was once supposed to give. It has it all its own fight now, anyway. Why gild the lily? Why not inaugurate an Employers' and Capitalists' Day—presumably on the 29th of February!

LINER LANDS 2 GIRLS TO WED

In from Glasgow and Belfast, the liner Caledonia tied up at the Cunard Pier in East Boston today with the tunes of the Wedding March in the air.

Aboard the ship were Miss Annie Thomson, of Bucki, Scotland, and Miss Elizabeth Tedford, of Belfast, Ireland both on their way to American altars.

Miss Thomson was met by James Farquhar, of Concord, N. H., whom she had not seen in five years but from whom she had received letters galore in that time. They are to be married in Concord soon.

Albert G Evans of Cambridge went aboard to meet Miss Tedford. He had a marriage license in his pocket and announced they would be married in the home of his sister in Prospect street, Cambridge, on Saturday.

Also among the ship's 550 passengers—139 of whom disembarked here—was Mrs E. Nason Hamlin of Dedham She is a daughter of General Francis Peabody and the mother of one of the local Cunard officials. She returned from five weeks in England and Scotland.

The ship, which leaves for New York at 2 p. m., also carried a cargo of 150 tons, consisting largely of liquors.

Wife 'All Done' With Model Husband, Back in Jail

By Peggy Doyle

"I'm all through with him. I want to forget all about him."

Thus did Mrs. Helen Rand Gilbert, wife of George E. Gilbert, payroll robber, kidnaper and escaped convict, who "wholly rehabilitated" himself in California in four years after his escape from Norfolk Prison Colony, toss aside all possibility of reconciliation with the "model citizen."

Mrs. Rand and her four children now are living with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin N. Rand, in their Davis road, Bedford home, while her husband, back in the Norfolk prison colony, faces a 10 year and seven months unexpired term for robbery while armed and a possible additional five years for escaping from the prison camp.

WANTS TO FORGET

"I don't even want to talk about him again," Mrs. Gilbert told the Boston Evening American today. "I want to forget all about him and retire to obscurity and bring up my children properly. Reconciliation with him is impossible, so far as I am concerned."

Gilbert was returned to the Norfolk prison colony on Tuesday after he had been extradited from California over the protests of many Los Angeles residents who became associated with him in business and in social activities in an exclusive country club.

DENIES WEDDING

Governor Merriam of California at first refused to sign extradition papers on the grounds that Gilbert was a "model citizen and had wholly rehabilitated himself." A personal note to the California governor from Governor Ely declaring that Gilbert had a wife and four children here caused Governor Merriam to reverse his original decision.

Immediately upon his return to the Norfolk prison colony, Gilbert denied that he had been married to a Los Angeles woman and was the father of two children. He expressed a desire to talk with his wife in the hope that reconciliation with her might be affected.

Eliza A. Cummings of 80 Woodside road, Winchester, owned one of the cars. The other was owned by Elridges A. Lucas of Franklin street, Reading. The Cummings car was overturned.

PRIEST BURIAL THIEF HUNTED

While funeral services were being held for the Rev. Francis W Maley, late pastor of St. Joseph's church, Lynn police were searching for a man who jimmied his way into the adjoining convent while the nuns were attending a ceremony in honor of the pastor.

Discovered by the housekeeper, a nun, the man fled through the convent dining room and escaped through a window, running toward adjacent railroad tracks. Police were unable to trace him. Nothing of value was stolen.

Cardinal O'Connell visited at the convent this noon in behalf of Father Maley A mass for the repose of the soul of the late priest will be said at 8 o'clock next Friday morning.

OFFICERS FROWN ON NEW HEALTH MOVEMENT

Staid old Boston shocked . . . become by the controversy over the wearing of shorts in public parks, hasn't seen anything yet.

Beginning next Tuesday guardians of the public morals will have something real to worry about. For that is the date set for the opening of Boston's first nudist gymnasium.

Just where this new temple of the devotees of unclad sport will be located is kept a dark secret by the Olympian League New York organization which is sponsoring the new gymnasium.

In a circular, bearing the motto "Go Nudist for Your Health" the League has summoned its 75 Boston members to an opening session of its gymnasium. The circular said

CALL FOR MEETING

"On the evening of Tuesday, August 21, 1934, The Olympian League, America's oldest nudist organization, will open the first nudist gymnasium to be operated in Boston. Plans are also being made for the opening of a short season of nudism in a modern well-equipped farm, located 20 miles from the city. The farm season will begin August 23 and continue until September 25.

"The activities of the Boston gymnasium of the Olympian League will include indoor baseball, basketball, medicine ball, calisthenics and all the other activities usually associated with any modern gymnasium."

DENYING TO ACT

But while the nudists were presumably performing an opposite gesture, law enforcement officials were shaping their forces to bar nudists from Massachusetts.

No nudist colonies will be established in Norfolk or Plymouth counties if District Attorney Edmund R. Dewing has anything to say about it. Dewing declares

"We will step in to protect the morals of the southeastern district if we find it necessary.

And Middlesex County is to remain equally pure. Assistant District Attorney William G Andrew, Jr., assistant to his chief, Warren A. Bishop, was emphatic in that regard. He said

"Not a nudist colony in this county? We wouldn't tolerate it for a minute."

READY FOR TEST CASE

Equally confident, the nudists are ready and willing to take a test case to court. On this question the league says

"The Olympian League goes into Massachusetts prepared. If necessary, to engage in a test case to demonstrate that they have a legal right to practice nudism. However, the league anticipates no legal trouble, since Massachusetts has already recognized the legality of nudism, having permitted practice of nudism since June, 1933, at the nudist camp of Rev. Henry Strong Huntington at Otis."

Otis, a little town in the western part of the state, has had its nudists for two summers now and likes them, so far as can be seen.

At least Frank B. Bryand, chairman of the selectmen said there have been no complaints in the town against the back-to-nature exponents

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—Few press agents have so achieved the eight-column streamers themselves along with their propagandizing as Ivy Lee. Almost seasonally, his name breaks out in a headline rash. His association with the Rockefellers, big industries and foreign governments make him the highest salaried publicity man in the world.

He is reputedly a millionaire, lives in a mansion in East 66th street and his daughter has been presented at court. His expansive offices in Broad street are more like the editorial rooms of a large publishing plant with editors, sub-editors and staff of trained writers.

O. O. McIntyre

Soft spoken with a southern accent, he was born in Cedartown, Ga., and his actual newspaper work has been limited to a few years. He was first to see the possibilities of a top-hat and other window dressing which caused a press agent to be known as a 'public relations counsel." Ahem'

When occasion demands, he makes a flowery speech or writes a book. But chiefly he is an adviser and confidant of capitalistic classes Every now and then his status as a propagandist seems in eclipse, but sooner or later he serenely bobs up again. They call him "Clinging Ivy."

New York's celebrated goose restaurant, dim-lit Gansemeyer's, has gone the way of so many old-time eating places the past few years. A "For Rent" hangs in the window of the deserted room it occupied on West 13th street. It was opened in 1852 and specialized in the identical goose menu of its opening until the closing. Its patrons were conspicuous for their avoirdupois.

Save for one occasion, Victor Herbert never failed to lead the orchestra at the premiere of his operettas or musical shows. The one exception was 'The Lady of the Slipper" which he wrote for C. B. Dillingham. The rehearsals continued almost to curtain time. The long strain caused a dust-up between Dillingham and Herbert and the latter laid down his baton and walked out. But they made up next day.

The stories go that Col Lindbergh, so rarely seen in Manhattan by day, frequently motors about town after the population has settled down to its first leg of sleep. He drives, well goggled, in a roadster from the Morrow Englewood estate where he lives, down Riverside Drive and crosses quiet cross streets but never invades the brightly lit sections such as Broadway. Frequently he takes a turn in Central Park, too. Sometimes Mrs. Lindbergh accompanies, but more often he is alone. Now and then he has been recognized by late wayfarers. At least so they say.

Broadway banter: A blonde friend of Wilson Mizner once appeared at Churchill's to dance with Lew Brice. Next evening she appeared on the same dance floor with Monte Brice. As she swirled past Mizner's table he chirped. "Brice disease, eh"

HITLER SEEN USING JEWRY TO FOCUS PUBLICITY ON HIMSELF

Auto Injuries Fatal

Woman Ends Life in Park

His Studies of These People Began Early in Vienna

The Boston Evening American today continues its series of articles on Hitler, the human question mark of Europe. Most talked of man in the world today, the dictator of Germany holds the key to the problem of war or peace in Europe Begin the series today.

CHAPTER 4

Hitler!
Explosions over Europe!
Hater of Hebrews . . . or shrewd schemer, using them to his ends?
"What made Adolf Hitler hate the Jews?"

This is a question frequently asked. It is a question which the all-powerful chancellor is declared never to have answered fully.

Many persons are there who maintain that the present ringmaster of Europe's political and political circus set upon the Jews with a definite purpose in mind . . . To focus publicity upon himself.

Hitler himself has not supplied the answer. Nor has his family.

He was a keen mind which mysteriously schemed him upward from a position of complete obscurity to that of the most talked of man in the world today, the dictator of Germany holds the key to the problem of war or peace in Europe. Begin the series today.

But there is no substantiation of this theory.

Reading Hitler's own life story in explanation it does appear to be taken as a bid of him in Vienna. And it should be remembered that the years which he spent in that city were those of his most formative and social years, when he was accepting or rejecting the principles which he was to outline further in his book.

"I went to Vienna and began to study the social and racial problems as well as the Marxian movement. I left Vienna a confirmed anti-semite, a deadly enemy of the Marxian outlook and a strong Pan-German."

When the man who was to head the state of Germany left Vienna he did not return to Hitler's desire that Jews were to Vienna but he was filled with hatred and distrust. Most of the arguments in favor of the Jews were subject to German or Gentile opposite to Austrians.

The Jews were not considered as a separate people. They were counted in as a part of one or the other of main classifications.

In Vienna Told That All Jews Were Bad

But in Vienna young Hitler found the future Chancellor that State were many Jews in the city. And that all Jews were bad.

That excited young Adolf. His curiosity became immediately aroused. He began to investigate. And at once made a distinction between Germans and German Jews, Austrians and Austrian Jews.

He began to observe them. Although he was so young, he with a keen mind could not help but be impressed by the vast difference of dress and manner between the Austrian Jew and the German Jew.

But he would watch them carefully and study their features with the intensity of a detective.

Afterward, he would sit and ponder the same question. Ponder it with a brain that was uncanny and fired with the earnestness of a reformer.

Now he saw Jews everywhere. No longer did he have trouble distinguishing them. Vienna, in fact, seemed a different city to him. Jewish people were before him at every turn.

Convinced They Were Of Nation in Itself

And the more of them he saw the more he became convinced in the mind that they were not Germans nor Austrians. But a nation by themselves existing within the boundaries of the two countries. In swarming settlements, huddled together.

A portion of the Jews themselves may have helped him to form as he did about the whole race. This was when Zionism sprang up among them. Zionism being a movement which seized among the Jews the desire to form the nucleus of a Jewish State.

At first it looked as though the new movement would get somewhere. But after a period of time the greater portion of the Jewish population banded under the label of Liberal Jews opposed the movement.

There was no question but that the Zionist followers were Jews and that all Jews were with the Liberals formed them. All this [illegible] the effort aside [illegible] ground that the Zionists were impractical. Therefore, in [illegible] as a menace to their [illegible]

Hitler, who had been reading about the movement, as usual, sought out more conclusions regarding it by going through the [illegible] newspaper.

Believed Discord Far From Genuine

He maintained that the apparent discord over the Zionists was far from genuine. That the entire movement was more or less of a respondent nuttered by the majority of Jews for purpose known only to them for their [illegible] even at the big gist of the action. There was no [illegible] in the solidity of the main body of Jews.

Transition of Frisch Mutineer Becomes Hard-Shell Czar

The Deans Rebel B. U. Goes Dizzy In Grid Dress

By AUSTEN LAKE

IN EXAMINING THE EXECUTIVE style of Frankie Frisch, the Cardinal manager who has just found the Dean boys guilty of rebellion and sentenced them to confinement and cash fines, I see the trace of his early training in John McGraw's old reform school.

Austen Lake

Although a surly and rebellious figure himself during his younger days, Frisch is essentially a product of the McGraw system of discipline, including the old-time ritual of counting the Giant chain gang into their cells at night and maintaining a scheme of keyhole and switchboard espionage. McGraw was the original house dick of baseball and Frisch learned from him.

But in courtmartialing the Deans, Frisch seems to have gone his old tutor one better. Because where McGraw's experience was mostly with picturesque inebriates, like Shuffling Phil Douglas and Bugs Raymond, the Deans are neither drinkers of boisterous waters nor midnight roisterers, but merely a pair of Russian bolsheviks whom the Moscow Soviet has smuggled into baseball for the purpose of sowing discord and furthering the world revolution.

* * * *

I GET THIS PRETTY STRAIGHT from the Department of Justice. That Dizzy and Paul Dean, who between them have won 43 games for the Cardinals, are not, as they profess, sons of a Western farmer. Their names are not Dean at all, but Dibrilovsky, who learned their baseball in Stalin's G. P. U. school in the Ukraine and were smuggled into this country with forged passports to ping the Soviet state propaganda.

Suspension and fines are too good for them. They ought to be deported as undesirable aliens.

What do they do at the crucial point of the season, with the Cards only six and a half games behind the league lead. They go to open mutiny, declaring a private holiday while the rest of the club travel to Detroit for an exhibition game. Then they tear up their uniforms and go to singing the third internationale in the clubhouse.

And they sass Frisch, who is a pretty tough monkey himself, and when Frank says to Diz, "That will cost you $50." Diz says back, "Pine, make it a hundred." And Frank says, "O. K., a hundred it is, and I will make it larger if you wish." They Diz says, "No, that is enough."

* * * *

NOW I WILL TELL YOU WHY the Soviet and Stalin picked the Cardinals to disorganize. Because Sam Breadon, the millionaire owner, is a famous old kingmaker with an impish love for turning his workers upside down and yanking old heroes off their pedestals, like Rogers Hornsby, Bill McKechnie, Bob O'Farrell and Gabby Street.

Breadon has always given his managers the title, but not much authority and very little money. The job calls for humility of spirit, so that the man who takes it suffers less in proportion as he keeps his neck bent.

So, when Stalin sent the Deans, or Dibrilovskys, over to worm into the U. S. public's favor preliminary to blowing the lid off things he said, "This is easy pickings."

Only he forgot that Frisch was not of the usual Cardinal breed, but an old Porista of the McGraw school, where the diet was iron filings for breakfast and a platter of tacks for lunch. And he did not know that Frankie was likely to set grass fires with the friction of his fury and sometimes take a man's skin off whole without unbuttoning his coat.

So the Deans, or Dibrilovskys, are wondering today what Frisch meant when he said, "Good-bye, and I don't care whether I ever see you again." Before it is over I'll bet that they come whimpering back on their hands and knees and offer to take out naturalization papers. They will find that Frisch, and the old McGraw school, is twice as tough as Stalin and the Russian Soviet.

* * * *

THE STRANGE PART OF ALL THIS is that Frisch used to sit in dark corners of the hotel lobbies when he was with the Giants plotting insurrection against McGraw and inciting his comrades to riot.

He and some of the other liberty-loving types, like Bill Terry and Casey Stengel, used to squat and connive the morning hours away. Only I noticed whenever their jailor crossed the lobby they would pull their heads apart and set up an innocent whistling, looking a little frightened.

It is strange now, to think that all three of these old malcontents are managers of other National League teams, each notorious for demanding plain, dumb docility from their workers.

I can recall the day in 1924 when Frisch blew the Giants' show in midspring and went home, saying he was through with baseball forever. But I am told when the club came back he wandered into the Polo Grounds locker room, with a foolish grin, and swallowed McGraw's pennance humbly.

Little did he know then that by becoming a dutiful soldier he was learning the requisite of becoming a stern commander.

* * * *

WELL, ENOUGH OF THAT. Boston University football, having strayed from its late idealism to the opposite extreme, is going to dress in uniforms next fall that would put an American Legion drum corps to shame.

Pat Hanley has designed these suits, taking his cue from his brother, Dick, who had the best-dressed football team in the mid-West at Northwestern U. last year.

Pat has ordered golden satin pants with carmen insets on the back of the legs, jerseys of vivid scarlet with white chest facing, and bottle-cap helmets with white trimmings. The getup is calculated to paralyze the opposition.

* * * *

THOUGH HARVARD IS CALLING OUT its varsity football squad on September 15, for five of its potential stars training will not begin till October 1. These five, Adzigian, Bjodeau, Gibbs, Woodruff and Owen, are touring Japan with the baseball team.

Incidentally, this tour does not cost the H. A. A. a red copper, because the Japanese government pays expenses to and from San Francisco, and the boys are paying their bus fares and keep across the country.

If the Worcester Rosebuds play the part of the gentleman, some sort of a record should be set up tonight at Victory Field, Watertown, for Jackie Mitchell, [illegible] girl pitcher, will twirl two innings for Watertown.

Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig were very, very nice one spring day three years ago, and Miss Mitchell became famous.

In an exhibition tilt with the Yankees, she fanned both the King and Crown Prince of Swat.

Tonight's game will be a flood-light affair starting at 9 p. m. and Roger L. Fraser [illegible] equipment will be used.

Jordan Marsh made it two straight over the Caseys in the Boston Park League finals evening at Garvey Field, 6 to 4. More than 500 fans saw the Caseys take an early 4 to 1 lead. Scoring one in the third and two apiece in the 4th and 5th innings, the Jordanites went out in front to win.

The third game of the series will be played this evening at the Dorchester Town Field. Al Bloom is Dick Casey's mound choice while Pete Cerrone is slated to twirl for Jordans.

RAINBOW FAILS TO FINISH IN RACE

By Associated Press

Newport, R. I., Aug. 16—The candidates for the defense of the America's cup were back at the scene of the approaching international sailing contest today to dispute possession of the Astor cup, a trophy which long has furnished an issue for competition.

Racing with the defense aspirants—Yankee, Weetamoe, and Rainbow—was Vanitie, cup boat of 1914, but now ineligible.

The four big sloops returned from the annual cruise of the New York Yacht Club with the Rainbow entry, Yankee, sailed by former Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams, far in the lead on the yardstick record to date.

Rainbow, Hit U. S. Vanderbilt's new constructed candidate which has thus far been unable to defeat Yankee, failed to finish the cruise under sail. Becalmed and hopelessly beaten the new yacht lost her slatting canvas and she came in under tow while her opponents were finishing.

Vanitie, owned and skippered by Gerard Lambert, was first across the finish line, but she was not credited with a victory by the race committee. She is compelled under her rating to concede nearly seven seconds a mile to the newer boats and this she was unable to do for the 37 mile course from Vineyard Haven, Mass.

This gave Weetamoe, skippered by Dick Boardman, a technical victory, and Yankee was credited with second place. The Boston delegation was perfectly satisfied for, since the start of competition, they have considered Rainbow their particular foe.

Millionaire Tom 'One of the Boys' With Fenway Band

The tale of the million dollar arm-ache is told again by Lefty Grove, right, to Pres. Yawkey. Grove shows his employer how he holds the ball for the fast pitch he couldn't control while the arm was ailing. Since being the Browns at Fenway Tuesday, it appears that Grove is back near top form.

"This is the way to bunt them over the garden wall, boss," says Catcher Rick Ferrell to Yawkey. Rick, a slim athlete who is amazingly powerful, finds Yawkey an interested pupil. Pres. Tom was a capable college baseball player. His enthusiasm for the game has never palled. Now, owning a big league team, he is one of the best informed magnates, keeping in close touch with his players and official family brings him all the latest baseball news. Rick is one of Yawkey's favorites, for not only is the catcher playing exceptionally well himself but he persuaded the Sox owner to take on brother Wes. Tom did, and has been elated since. Wes has been the most consistent winner in the Red Sox fold since he joined the club. And, too, he hits as hard as brother Rick. They far outshine the brothers Gaston battery which the Sox had under Bob Quinn.

Was Frisch Right in Fining Dean Boys?

Both Pitched Sunday; Why Take Useless Ride?

By Joe Cashman

Frankie Frisch is right when he says no two players are bigger than a whole ball club and that discipline must be maintained, but the old Fordham flash doesn't give any logical reason why he asked his mound aces, both of whom pitched Sunday, to spend the next 48 hours taking a train ride from St Louis to Detroit and back. In fact, there isn't any sensible reason that Frankie could give.

Babe Ruth's home run record may be safe for a while longer, but Jimmie Foxx, Athletics' slugging first baseman, is getting closer to the Bambino's mark with each circuit clout. Foxx hit his 31st and 32nd homers of the season in the double-header with the Red Sox at the Fenway Park park Sunday, and his 32nd was a tremendous drive that cleared the left field wall by a wide margin. Foxx has 17 more games in which to add to his total.

The Browns have pepper, but in the wrong place. Dick Coffman and Bill McAfee, former Brave, were chased by Umpire Harry Geisel for remarks from the bench.

Rube Walberg was saved plenty of trouble by two great double plays engineered by Lou Lary and Bill Cissell, but the Browns pulled off the pair twice during the afternoon. Lefty Grove, pitching for the Athletics, stopped the Browns with two clubs have met this season, Walberg off second in the eighth inning according to Matchmaker Rip Vidmer.

A Connor and Al McCoy will be in the main bout Jimmy Bodin, welterweight of Johnny Regan, welterweight of Lowell, will fill a card on the semi-final.

The eleven pair Lou Ransome and Johnny Regan, welterweight of Lowell, will fill a card on the semi-final.

Jacobs-Palfrey Final, Predicted by Tunis, Seems Certain; Baroness Surprises

By John R Tunis

Upset queen of national women's tennis is upset herself. Baroness Maure Levi takes a spill in her winning match with Betty Nuthall, of Britain, result of which (the match) rocked two continents. The Baroness then went on to defeat Bonnie Miller and as a result is a quarter-finalist in the play. (Picture by International News Photo Service.)

The Wheaton Stables color-bearer raced a mile in 1:04 3-5 in that effort to dub Ed Lock Thomas Sir Tee Bitch and Red Badge Following that race Carry Over was shipped over to Saratoga for a try at the Mohawk Cummins Stakes

According to stable connections Carry Over stepped well from the Spa and is razor sharp In addition he is handled perfectly by Jimmy and will be doubled in his last trip to the paddock

FIRST RACE
Colorist, Radiator, Slay Boy

This affair shapes up as strictly a two-horse race between COLOR IST and RADIATOR The top one finished a length in back of Radia tor in the last outing with HIS aboard Today the Lubeck racer is slated to carry 119 pounds and will have an eight pound pull in the fight Under the weight assigned this son of Donnacona should have little difficulty in defeating the three RADIATOR shows a nice effort in better company Tuesday and should come back with one more bullet SLAY BOY has been freshened up since his seven consecutive second place

SECOND RACE
Liqueur, Cash Surrender, Traffic Jude

LIQUEUR has been beaten by a nose and a neck at the meeting but that effort ought him to rest in an off track today Trainer J. D. Mayer rides Baxter finished third in that race behind Leaflet and Mother Goose Boy for being shut off at the far turn he would have easily won that race With clear sailing, he should ever cause the nose to double CASH SURRENDER finished close up Tuesday on a sloppy better company and may offer the chief opposition

THIRD RACE
Douglas F. Wilrob, Flaghorn

DOUGLAS F. strikes today as having a decided edge in class over his opponents The S H Fairbanks entry was defeated in the mile Shade top and bottom at Saratoga a few days ago The Aragon colt displayed high speed to and on the stretch is that affair. Prior to that race at Rockingham he had been handing in much better company. WILROB placed to GAY BANNER Tuesday and may take it all if the top one makes any mistakes FLAGHORN made up a world of ground in the third over a busy track in a cheap six furlong affair a few days ago. Mayhap, she will do better with dry footing.

FOURTH RACE
Postscript, Dustina, St Stephens

POSTSCRIPT reports from the Coventry camp are that she is in fine shape The Polymelian filly has been rested up since her few lengths campaign and should prove fit and with ease if she can step back to any one of her good race past marks The one in which she drubbed Gentleman aid Miss DUSTINA displayed an even race to finish third behind Kisma and Quite Race last out She will likely run an improved race in this affair ST STEPHENS has a whole of a race to drub All the kicks and other good ones last out

FIFTH RACE
Carry Over, Rhadamanthus, Knight of Old

CARRY OVER needs only an intelligent ride in order to lead this field under the wire. RHADAMANTHUS a three-year-old in the Wetlaufer barn didn't show anything in his lone outing over this course to be a credible bet better things KNIGHT OF OLD displayed nice speed in graduating from the ranks of the maidens the other day

SIXTH RACE

I find it mighty hard to go past COLD SPILL'S last race in this affair The Upset fully has meeting old, weak company in that affair But she won as her rider passed POLLY CEE doubled the former earlier in the meeting, but I don't believe she is capable of duplicating the feat. BOY CRAZY has been facing well and is entitled to some consideration

SEVENTH RACE
Burning Up, Bylona, Hermie Boy

BURNING UP has gone a long way back in the betting if he can't handle a field of this sort The J. D. Mikel colt raced well with high class platers at Rockingham Park. BYLONA is dropping considerable weight of his last two efforts and should furnish the contention

MARKET VIEWS OF BROKERS

F. A. Pierce & Co.—Probably overshadowing all other market factors is the fall business trend, and opinion is forming to the effect that the development of this trend will be at a later date than usual. In the meantime, the market is marking time, but apparently with a slight tendency toward the strong side.

G. M. P. Murphy & Co.—Without better action by the rails more optimism is hardly justified.

J. S. Bache & Co.—Indications of an important swing have yet to present themselves, and in their absence, little more than minor trading turns may be gained.

Josephthal & Co.—Trade statistics in the immediate future are not expected to preside the market with much stimulus but the outlook for fall business will probably be the main factor governing the course of stock prices over the next three or four weeks.

Livingston & Co.—Whether business picks up or not in the fall is of the immediate market influence again. On this question opinion is divided but the chances favor that some betterment will occur in September.

New York, Aug. 16 — Stocks pointed higher in light trading today, with the rail issues setting the pace for the recovery.

All sections of the list reflected the somewhat improved demand for securities, and gains ran to 2 points in some instances.

Demand for the carrier shares, which centered in such issues as Atchison, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Delaware & Hudson came in the face of indications that loadings last week were down more than seasonally.

The mining shares also were better supported, with United States Smelting, Verro de Paseo and American Smelting gaining about a point each.

Wheat and the other grains moved up more than a cent a bushel, and cotton gained nearly 50 cents a bale.

While markets waited for definite signs of a seasonal pickup in business, second-quarter earnings statements furnished some satisfactory reading for shareholders.

Reactions in grains and other leading commodities were relatively subdued, for the moment at least, talk of a sharp rise in living costs.

The Bank of Labor Statistics' retail food price index for the two weeks ended July 31 was 119.1, compared with 109.7 on July 3, and with 104.8 on July 15, 1933. It did not reflect the early August rise in prices.

Foreign exchanges were steady in early dealings. The British pound opened at $5.08 1-16, up 1-64. French francs were unchanged at 6.66 cents.

SCHOOLS AND COLLEGES

CIVIL SERVICE IS LIFETIME CAREER

The young man or woman seeking a career or wishing to change their vocation in life too often overlook the many possibilities in civil service in the opinion of Professor Herrle of the Herrick Institute. Uncle Sam is perhaps the largest employer in the country and the civil service includes not only the federal service which employs over 650,000 or approximately 80 per cent of those in the U. S. government service but includes thousands of state, city and town positions. While it is true enough that opportunities in civil service of late years were fewer they have shown a decided upward trend in recent months. A straw in the wind is the recent appointment of over 100 post office substitutes in Boston to regular permanent work. As general business hits its stride other government departments will most surely need more employes.

Of interest too is the announcement of Secretary Morgenthau of his intention to wipe out the illicit liquor traffic and to take on a thousand more agents if necessary. The average person thinks of only a few civil service positions as post office employe, fireman, policeman, whereas as a matter of fact there are some 1700 different kinds of examinations given by the civil service commission. Many of these positions are up for vacancies from year to year and there are over 45 of the better known classifications in which classes are given at the Herrick Institute. Twenty-five of these regular recurring classifications are open to women, the fair sex having come right to the fore in government service of late as they have in business.

Because of deaths, retirements, pensioning off and because of the normal growth of the country and the tendency for government business and private business to become more closely interwoven plenty of opportunities await the ambitious.

Inasmuch as civil service offers a lifetime career it is worthy of sincere, and worthy preparation by the best instructors possible. To pass with a 70 per cent is not enough, every point and fraction of a point counts and to the man with the best marks goes the job. The subject matter of an examination is strange to the average person and no matter how fundamental their education a thorough knowledge of the duties and the laws affecting the position, which the candidate is seeking is necessary.

37th Year at Northeastern

The opening of its 37th year this fall finds Northeastern University in a very favorable position, notwithstanding a somewhat diminished income occasioned by economic conditions. By careful planning the University has been able to retain its faculties at approximately full strength and to maintain its entire educational plant in operation. The University is proceeding with its plans for developing a more adequate plant. With this end in view an architectural competition was conducted during the year for the purpose of obtaining a general scheme for the buildings to be erected on the newly acquired land adjoining the present buildings.

Northeastern continues to offer opportunities for higher education through both day and evening courses which are especially directed towards enabling students to adjust themselves effectively in a rapidly changing industrial age.

The University comprises four degree granting schools: the Schools of Law and Business which make up the evening division, and the Schools of Engineering and Business Administration which form the day division.

Both of the Day Collegiate schools are definitely committed to the co-operative plan which was first introduced to New England when the Northeastern School of Engineering was founded in 1909. Over the last quarter of a century the plan has developed until at the present time it has the hearty cooperation of employers throughout New England. On the co-operative plan students obtain, in addition to their regular classroom work, a practical, correlated experience under actual engineering and business conditions. Their earnings on these co-operative jobs substantially aid them in meeting their college expenses.

The School of Engineering offers curricula in Civil, Mechanical, Electrical, Chemical, and Industrial Engineering, leading to the degree of Bachelor of Science with curriculum specification. The School of Business Administration provides three fields of specialization: Accounting and Banking and Finance, and Business Management, and grants the degree of Bachelor of Science in Business Administration.

Courses in the Evening Division are planned specifically for employed men and women who desire to advance themselves in professional life. The School of Law, established in 1898, and granting the degree of Bachelor of Laws, is the case method of instruction which is designed to develop that soundness of legal reasoning and knowledge of the law so essential at the bar.

BURDETT FALL TERM BEGINS SEPT. 4

Opening September Marks Beginning of 56th Year of Business

Burdett College will begin its 56th year September 4, at which time the Executive Secretarial, Stenographic Secretarial, Stenographic, Business and Bookkeeping Courses will begin. Business Administration and Accounting Courses will start September 17, which is also the date of the opening of Evening School.

Enrollments for September are showing a marked increase over those of a year ago. This is not only noticeable in the enrollment of students to report here, but also in the registration of students from a distance. Interest is especially marked among college people, many of whom after one or two years of college have enrolled for practical courses at Burdett.

Chief among the developments during the summer has been the reorganization of the Placement Department. The new members of this department are Miss H. H. Adele Howe, as Personal Director in charge of vocational guidance and placement. Miss Howe was previously with the R. H. White Company, Boston, as supervisor of employment and training. She will be assisted in her work by Miss Constance Conant, Bates '33, and Burdett '34. In connection with her duties as personnel director, Miss Howe will conduct lecture courses covering the subjects of personality, police, dress and how to apply for a position.

Throughout the summer, employment calls for graduates have maintained an increase of more than double those of the past year.

Catalogues of both day and evening courses are available for distribution and will be mailed to any one interested to telephone or write the school.

Music Supervisors Well Trained at Conservatory

The New England Conservatory of Music of Boston offers special training for the position of music supervisor, fitting its graduates to fill such positions in public or private schools, academies and colleges. Other courses prepare one to become members of famous orchestras like the Boston Symphony Orchestra, to become soloists, to enter opera and to take profitable advantage of the increasing opportunities for well trained musicians.

Music and dramatic work in school with its fun, pleasant companionships and effort paid by a sense of real accomplishment is only a foretaste of what may be achieved by following music or dramatics as a profession or cultural activity. It may only be continued as a means of personal development and expression to give pleasure to yourself, your family and friends. Or you may recognize that nearly all people hunger to enjoy such art, but few can create it, and the many are willing to pay and pay well for the privilege of listening to and watching others create beauty and happiness out of sound, rhythm and action.

Should you decide upon a musical career the field is a wide one. You may become a member of a hotel, theater, or symphony orchestra. You may become one of a trio, quartet or similar group traveling the country for concert engagements or, if a singer, may work with such a group as assisting soloist. Music "on the air" provides a hearing and employment for almost every conceivable type of musical expression. If you enjoy teaching you may do it privately or become a public school music supervisor. Whatever your choice you will need several years of intensive study at a recognized school of music to fit you for your position. Graduates of the school are to be found in every large community throughout the country filling enviable positions in these various fields.

Wagner School

The Wagner School of Art will re-open its various classes on Monday, Sept. 10. The director states that the outlook for the fall and winter season is very promising, judging by the increased number of inquiries over last summer. There will be no change in the faculty, but emphasis will be given to several commercial subjects in the art department, under the direction of Mr. Theophanes Caravias, thus enabling students to more quickly capitalize their artistic abilities.

The Saturday sketch class will function again under Mr. Walter V. Sherwood and Mr. Wagner, both recognized specialists in these lines.

The evening classes will be organized Tuesday, Sept. 11, and a larger than usual registration is anticipated. The school is open daily for conference and registration.

Free Scholarship

The Bergeron Singing Club, a group of over fifty young ladies, affiliated with the Massachusetts and National Federation of Music Clubs, is offering through the facilities of The Bergeron School of Music of Boston, a Scholarship consisting of two full semesters in Vocal Culture and one full semester in Piano Instruction. Only young ladies over 18 years are eligible to compete. Full information may be obtained by writing Audition Chairman, 30 Huntington Ave., Boston.

Mass. Radio School

Officials of the Massachusetts Radio School, which has placed 190 licensed graduates in the past three years, believe that the radio industry has not yet finished its expansion. They believe that it still holds interesting possibilities, and they point out that United States laws require the employment of licensed radio operators.

State Police Force Are Solvers of Crimes

ACTION of the Revere officials in calling on the State and Boston police to solve the mystery surrounding the slaying of Nate Siegel offers a lesson in crime detection.

It shows that the proponents of a unified police bill were right. Efforts to pass such a bill were defeated by politicians at the last session of the Legislature on Beacon Hill.

There was never any real doubt about the need of police unification. There have been numerous cases of successful crime solution by the members of our too meagre state detective force.

One notable instance was the quick untangling of the Cape Cod kidnaping, the release of the girl captive and the arrest and conviction of the kidnapers right after General Needham took charge.

The Faber-Millen convictions were more recent examples.

THE existence of a larger State detective force, EQUIPPED WITH ALL NEEDED POWER, able to disregard town and city boundaries, would not only DETECT criminals but also PREVENT crimes.

We have the nucleus of the sort of force Massachusetts needs. That nucleus is now at work on the Siegel slaying, following the admitted failure of the city police to achieve the desired results.

Some will see in Revere's asking aid of the State and Boston police an example that there is more than humor behind the popular jest: "Mr. Policeman, call a cop!"

But the important point is brought home in the truth of the ancient motto: "United we stand, divided we fall."

The combined police forces of Massachusetts could achieve a great deal more than individuals working in varied directions.

The tug-of-war team that wins is the one which exerts the best UNITED effort.

We hope the members of the next Legislature will have learned this simple lesson before they assume their seats on Beacon Hill.

Key to Recovery

MANY thinking New Englanders will agree that Governor William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray in a recent interview contributed some very sensible observations on the New Deal.

No State in the Union has suffered more than Oklahoma from the drouth. Yet the Governor does not consider this withering visitation to be the crowning calamity or even the chief problem of his people.

He sees the Farmer's plight as due to causes which are very different and far more complicated.

"We shall never be able," says Governor Murray, "to alleviate this economic paralysis until private enterprise and industry are again developed."

He sees that the enterprises of the ordinary citizen must be restored to his own hands, and that we can never have a true recovery so long as the Government pays a wage for an able-bodied man greater than that which prevails in the community where they live.

To do so merely gives rise to the belief on the part of the workers that the Government will support them and that they need not support themselves.

THIS hard-landed and hard-headed American has little patience with the bureaucratic omniscients who are attempting to rule our ways—even to the point of rescinding the laws of nature, where the latter are found to be in conflict with their theories.

"It is not enough for bureaus in Washington to have good intentions," said he. "They must have practical knowledge, practical plans and methods.

"ALL THESE ARE LACKING NOW!"

The Democratic Governor of Oklahoma, in the light of such utterances, can hardly now escape being called a "REACTIONARY OBSCURANTIST."

Perhaps Professor Tugwell will fasten upon him some of his proprietary epithets such as "infantile," "indecent" and "Tory." The Tugwell branding iron seems to be working overtime just at present and his epithets are flying in every direction.

But the people of the United States—the plain Americans—are very apt to feel that Governor Murray has said just what they have been thinking for a long time, and that he has expressed a judgment on the tinkers and regimenters, the perplexed Brain Trusters and the baffled professors, which is rapidly becoming THE JUDGMENT OF THE COUNTRY.

For County Reform

The probability that the next session of the Legislature on Beacon Hill will see some battling in behalf of county government reform looms large.

A growing number of aspirants for House seats are known to favor action to relieve the troubled taxpayer.

Leroy W. Dunfey of Lowell, running for the House, points out that the county form of government is not only obsolete but also menacing. Lowell's share of the county tax for 1934 shows an increase over 1933 of $15,600, says Dunfey.

Charles C. O'Donnell of Lynn, running for the House, also takes the right stand when he declares every candidate for the Legislature ought to be forced out into the open on the county reform issue.

Massachusetts Pays

Daniel Webster said proudly:

"Massachusetts, there she stands!"

Some modern successor should say:

"Massachusetts, there she pays!"

The state's textile industry, first to sign a Blue Eagle code, has already paid $19,196,160 into the Federal treasury as a processing tax.

The State, as a whole, has paid $23,580,533.

The textile tax was one-seventh of the total collected throughout the land.

That's paying for the New Deal.

Tenting Tonight' By the Sea -:- By T. E. Powers

OVER THERE IS A BETTER PLACE
YOU WOULD SAY THAT AFTER THE TENT IS UP!
WE'LL GET UP EARLY FOR A GOOD DAY'S FISHING
WHERE IS THE TENT, OR DID WE BRING A TENT?
WHY! SURE! WE HAD ONE LAST NIGHT!
THAT'S OUR TENT
KEEP QUIET HE MAY RUN AWAY

Listen, World! -:- By Elsie Robinson

WHY ARE WE PREJUDICED?

I ran across a keen expression the other day—"Ears plugged by the cotton of prejudice."—James Huneker.

You've come across such ears, haven't you? Seemingly smart, current people, yet, on certain subjects, impenetrable as steel walls.

Sit in with them on an argument that runs contrary to their notions—they hear the same words you hear, they make intelligent faces, but that's as far as it goes. Mentally they don't budge an inch. Nothing gets by that "plug of prejudice."

Elsie Robinson

Now this sort of stubborn intolerance is, convincingly, not only pesty but downright poisonous. The moment you become fixed on any subject, your progress stops in that direction. Hardening of the imagination is infinitely more disastrous than hardening of the arteries.

Then why do we get that way? Are we ever so wise that we couldn't stand a little more information? Is there any subject so sacred that discussion of it should be taboo?

PLUG OWN EARS

Of course, we aren't—and there isn't. As a matter of fact, the subject has comparatively little to do with our intolerance.

We plug our ears with prejudice, not to protect our convictions, but to protect our personal cussedness, cowardice and conceit.

Take, for example, the man who objects to women smoking, and refuses—with snarls of rage—to hear any favorable comments on the practice. Is he—as he sanctimoniously pretends—shocked or bothered because The Purity and Refinement of Women is threatened?

Anything But! But he is deeply concerned over a possible menace to an entirely different matter . . . his own status as a male.

Since time immemorial, males have had certain privileges and prerogatives. Smoking was one of them. There was no particular reason why males should have had special privileges . . . or why smoking should have been one of them. Females are people as well as males . . . and there is, as far as I know, no sex to cigarettes.

So just why males should think that they alone have a monopoly on fags is open to argument.

But prejudiced males don't intend to leave it open to argument. For suppose a lady won the argument . . . at once the way would be paved to a general attack on the whole male racket.

WOULD RAISE CAIN

Which would certainly raise Cain with endless masculine selfishness and vanity. So you simply can't argue with the man who insists that women shouldn't smoke. For if he yields on that one point, he exposes the whole range of his personal peevishness and will have to do something about it. Which, naturally, is unthinkable—to that type of human.

Smaller of fact, old dear, you and I are just as stubborn as a human who had "ears plugged by prejudice" on some subject.

With some of us it's some particular quirk in religion . . . with others it's politics, education, diets, sun baths, the rights of parents, fruit salads, single tax, mother love, alimony . . . there's no end to the causes and crochets we cherish.

But they all have this in common . . . when they once become a personal issue, nothing can change us. Henceforth, there's only one side to that question, and it's ours. And it's ours because we need it to protect some secret weakness or fear.

It's a great game—seeking for the Real Reason behind that "plug of prejudice." Try it on yourself for 48 hours. The next time you find yourself getting shrill, or shocked or stubborn on any subject stop and think: "Just why am I acting like this?

"Am I really Aflame With Righteous Indignation? Or am I trying to protect or promote some private racket?"

Dare to ask and answer that question honestly and—you'll be surprised!

Human Side of the News; Sultan Loses Seat

By Edwin C. Hill

Governor-General Murphy of the Philippines has denied to the 71-year-old Sultan of Sulu a seat in the Senate of the islands, an honor which the lively old Sultan had enjoyed for a good many years. Little is left to his Royal Highness, Hadji Mohammed Jamalul Kiram II, titularly ruling over 500,000 warlike Mohammedans, but religious authority.

He is the head of the Mohammedan religion in the 250 islands which make up the Sulu archipelago, but the United States government has taken away his political authority in the southern Philippines, and the British have eased him out of power in north Borneo.

It was away back in 1899 that the American authority in the islands collided with the Sultan of Sulu, capturing his capital, Jolo, after severe fighting. But diplomacy and horse sense displayed by Generals Pershing, Leonard Wood and Robert T. Bullard had as much to do with subduing the fighting Moros of Sulu as American bullets and bayonets.

PENSION STAYS ON

His political power disappeared nearly 20 years ago, but he has drawn a pretty nice pension from both the British and American governments—$3000 from Uncle Sam and about the same from John Bull—which, together with his takeoff on various concessions, brings his income up to about $15,000.

He's a gay old boy, the Sultan, fond of bright colors and pearls and inclined to make whoopee, after the Moro fashion. Years ago, I think it was in 1910 or 1911, he visited the United States and made colorful copy for the reporters, and one of his nieces had lived in this country for years.

William Jennings Bryan, touring the Philippines, called upon Uncle Sam's pet Sultan of Sulu one day and received a shock. Chatting with His Highness Jamalul Kiram the Second, whom George Ade had joked about in the musical comedy "The Sultan of Sulu," Mr. Bryan happened to glance at the ceiling, and was horrified to see crimson drops dripping through the cracks in the boards. He recalled that Mrs. Bryan had been escorted upstairs to the harem and started to his feet in alarm, but the interpreter smilingly reassured him. The red drops were not human blood, but the juice of the betel nut. The ladies of the Sultan's harem were merely refreshing themselves chewing the nut which corresponds in that part of the world to our American chewing gum.

And now the Sultan's adopted daughter, Princess Tarhata, lays claim to some fourteen islands of the Sulu group, lying between the Philippines and Borneo and owned by the British and the Dutch. The Princess, by the way, was educated in the University of Illinois, but went native in thorough-going style when she returned to the Far East.

$3000 A YEAR

There are four hundred islands in the Sulu group, most of which we took over from Spain. Some of the finest pearls come from there.

Uncle Sam pays the Sultan three thousand a year to keep him happy, and he is strongly opposed to Philippine independence because most of his subjects are Mohammedans, a race of fierce fighters who consider it a pious deed to translate Filipinos to a better world—a practice that the American government frowns upon.

Comes word from Manchukuo, Japan's Asiatic mainland bulwark against Soviet Russia, that a plot to assassinate the mysterious General Ma has been foiled. The "flash" serves at least to establish one point—that the elusive and extraordinary military personage of war-torn China is alive and seemingly quite able to keep the breath in his solid person.

We read a lot about General Ma when the Japanese guns were thundering at Shanghai, and pictured him, probably, as a lemon-tinted Oriental with a Mongolian ancestry stretching back to Confucius. But General Ma, distinguished Chinese military leader that he is, is really Moe Cohen, born in the Ghetto of London's East Side, and as much a follower of the Jewish faith today as he was when he was a boy in Whitechapel.

Born forty-nine years ago, young Moe Cohen trekked off to Canada at the age of sixteen to make his fortune. In and around Vancouver he was clerk, farmhand, pedler and real estate hustler. Then he got into land development in Western Canada and at a dinner in 1906 met the great Chinese liberator, Dr. Sun Yat Sen.

Dr. Sun persuaded Moe Cohen years later, after Cohen had fought in the World War with the Irish Guards, to try his fortune in new China, and there went the ambitious and adventurous Moe, who was to grow in Chinese politics and military affairs.

He helped Chiang Kai-shek modernize the Chinese army and commanded a division in many of Marshal Chiang's victorious campaigns. Among the sons of Han he attained influence greater perhaps than was ever possessed by a white man, and for a while he just about ruled Canton and the South.

Oklahomans 'Crack Down' on Law's Delays

By James T. Williams, Jr.

Oklahoma has found a remedy for the evil of "the law's delays" which will interest every other state in the Union.

The credit for this remedy is said to be chiefly due to the chief justice of the state—Fletcher Riley—a progressive American and an able jurist, who is still in his 35th year. His outstanding ambition, so far removed is he from the political type of judge, is to clean up the docket and speed the machinery of judicial decisions.

COURT DOCKET CROWDED

The Oklahoma Supreme Court is at present hundreds of cases behind in its docket. It is so far behind that it takes from two to four years to get a decision.

"Shyster" lawyers, of whom there are altogether too many in Oklahoma as there are in other states, have long since taken advantage of this fact by appealing cases that have no merit, for they know that their clients will have ample time to take bankruptcy or transfer property in order to escape judgment.

Many times the winning party in the lower courts settles for a nominal sum rather than have the case remain on appeal for years until it can be reached by the highest court of the state.

To eradicate this vicious practice Chief Justice Riley is firmly resolved. Some 15 years ago the Oklahoma Legislature established a supreme court commission of seven members to assist the court in clearing the crowded docket. Members of this commission were appointed by the governor. In consequence, the making of these appointments soon degenerated into a political racket, and it stood as a blot on the docket this political-ridden commission added to the delays of the law.

About five years ago public sentiment forced the legislature to abolish the supreme court commission and the docket of that tribunal continued to pile up with cases on appeal until the whole scandalous situation made a mockery of justice.

PROUD OF JUDICIARY

Such was the resentment of the people of the state over this condition of affairs that they concentrated upon raising the standard of the supreme court. Now for the first time in the history of the state, this tribunal is made up of able jurists, where formerly its personnel was often smeared by the slime of political influence.

Now the people of Oklahoma are proud of the membership of their supreme court and have confidence in the judicial fitness of its every member as well as in their personal integrity.

Under the leadership of Chief Justice Riley the court recently announced a plan for dealing drastically with the over-loaded docket, the plan is simple enough and could be adopted in every state where "the law's delays" are a blight upon the poor of their rights, retarding the processes of justice and providing an illicit livelihood for "shyster" lawyers.

The Oklahoma plan involves the creation by the supreme court of reputable lawyers to write advisory opinions on cases on appeal, which they may adopt or reject these advisory opinions. It is hoped that in this way the docket can be cleared within a year and that thereafter the court can keep up with its work.

The plan was initiated on a limited scale by Chief Justice Riley when he took office in January, 1933, and it is now in process that the plan was expanded and is now working to the satisfaction of the supreme court and the people of the state.

Many hundred more decisions were handed down by this Oklahoma tribunal in 1933 than in any year before Oklahoma's progressive chief justice put his plan into effect.

Having gone as far as it can under existing law in preventing dilatory appeals, the Oklahoma Supreme court is now seeking a supreme court commission which is being urged to enact new laws to limit the number of appeals.

BAN ORAL ARGUMENTS

There is no limit in Oklahoma today to the cases that can be heard on appeal, but existing law is so full of loopholes that it fails utterly to fulfill the purpose for which it was framed.

The Supreme court has succeeded in stopping a majority of dilatory appeals by refusing to hear oral arguments and by dismissing the appeal on its own motion where the primary object is shown on its face that it is nothing more than an appeal of a dilatory nature.

This progressive tribunal also refuses to hear oral arguments except in unusual cases and even in such cases time for argument is cut to a very short period.

If the next Legislature of Oklahoma will adopt the recommendations of Chief Justice Riley and the associate justices of his court for the reform of litigation in their state, Oklahoma will give the Union an example of the New Deal in litigation that will blaze the way for a square deal for honest litigants throughout the Union.

Tears in Eyes

By Winifred Black

The pretty little woman in the smart apple green sport frock sat in the lounge at the smart hotel.

A good many people looked at her but she didn't look at a soul. She was reading a letter. And she was laughing a little, and the funny thing about it was there were tears in her eyes, too.

She laughed when her friends came along and she put the letter into her bag—and then she laughed again.

Winnifred Black

"It's just a letter from Jim," said the pretty woman in the smart sport outfit.

"Is Jim gone?" asked the dearest friend.

"Oh, no," smiled the woman in green. "Jim and I never separate very long. But we write to each other just the same. We are as old-fashioned as a horse and buggy.

"We have been writing to each other for several years. Whenever Jim does something that makes me mad I don't say a word.

"I just wait until I get a chance and I go and write him a letter about it, and I slip the letter into his pocket so he will find it some time during the day.

"When he comes home at night he doesn't say a word about it. He just slips me a letter and I read it and we laugh and sometimes I cry—and everything's all right again.

"We have settled all our quarrels by mail. You can't think what a help it is. Now there was the time that Jim got to stepping out with a pretty gay crowd, and leaving me at home with the baby.

"I wrote him a letter about it and he answered the letter and since then where he dines I dine, and that's that.

"And there was the time I wanted Jim to take me to the concert and he was tired and wouldn't go. I went alone, and I was ashamed to be at the concert alone, so I went home and wrote a note about it and put it in Jim's pocket.

"The next night when Jim came home he didn't have any letter for me, but he just took me in his arms and said, 'Darling, you were quite right about the concert. It was mean of me to make you go alone. Let's make an agreement. I'll go to all your lectures and all your concerts and all your amateur performances with you if you will go to the baseball game and the poker party and the prize fight with me. That is fair, isn't it?' And we both laughed and that was settled.

"If I had talked to Jim about that concert we would have had a fight as sure as fate, and every fight is a nail in the coffin of love.

Rather a good idea, isn't it?

I wonder if it would work out well with a good many people? What do you think? You could have the same fun and the laughter and the thrill of "making up" and not have the bitterness of a real quarrel.

Marry-Go-Round

By Helen Rowland

DESIGN FOR COURTSHIP

Recently, a handsome young man was kidnaped and held captive by three bold and infatuated women right in the heart of New York City, according to news reports.

His "fatal beauty," declared his closest friends had always been a curse to him. The women simply would NOT let him ALONE!

This is not astonishing to those of us who have watched the gradual reversal of roles in the love game. For some years, the new design for courtship has been rapidly reaching the point where a virtuous, unsophisticated young man must look for his honor and struggle against the determined caresses of pursuing females.

Helen Rowland

In the last six or seven screen dramas I have seen, the heroine has done the courting and the proposing in every case. And, in at least two of them, her proposals were not even "honorable."

In one picture, a pure-minded young man with high ideals was actually "led astray" against his will—but managed eventually to force the girl to make an honest man of him by marrying him. Progress — freedom — self-expression! That's what the women fought for. And have they GOT it!

Just when the conventional "design for courtship" changed, or what caused the man and the woman to switch roles, nobody seems to know.

But, whatever the cause, there is no longer an imaginary line, where a girl stands "with reluctant feet" and waits for Prince Charming to come riding by. She runs out with a machine-gun and holds him up before he can get PAST.

"The day will soon come," remarked a popular bachelor, only a few summers ago, "when a man will have to defend his honor, when he will brag of his chastity and will boast that he has never been kissed. And a nice boy, who values his reputation, will carefully avoid being seen in the company of a woman who is known as a home-breaker, a man tamer and a Dona Juanita who has no respect for his sex!"

Well, you SEE how it is. It is no longer safe for a modest, well-brought-up young man to accept a lift in a girl's automobile unless his mother knows all about her. And he should make sure that her intentions are good, if not serious, before he permits her to let him kiss her—if you get what I mean.

Ruffles and curls and feminine frills may disguise the man-snatcher but the world is full of dangerous young women who regard every man as their "game" and will not take "no" for an answer.

And, if the latest police reports are true, it is the innocent, trusting young man who pays and pays and PAYS!

By Edgar A. Guest

THE STANDARD

Above and beyond the goal and the gain,
He cherished the means and the way,
Choosing his pride in himself to retain
To the end of the task and the day.

He wanted to win and he fought with a will;
Gave duty the best that he knew;
Hit hard when occasion demanded, but still
Did nothing a man wouldn't do.

This was his standard; to win if he could,
But never to pettiness bow.
To this test of fortune and triumph he stood;
Not that he had conquered, but how.
